Difficult Repairs.

Thomas A. Edison said recently of aeronautics:

"Within five years the north pole will be reached in a 40-hour trip, and the globe will be encircled in a week."

"But the type of aeroplane must be changed," continued Mr. Edison, "before such flights are undertaken, or otherwise the aeronauts will be taken like the automobilist, who after buying a cheap car, visited the salesroom and said:

"You said when you sold me my four-horsepower runabout that you'd supply all parts broken."

"Yes sir," said the salesman. "Then, said the other, let me have at once, please, a first and third rib, two front teeth, one left ankle-bone and a nose bridge."

Enough for One Day.

A very subdued looking boy with a scratch on his nose and an air of general dejection came to his teacher in one of the large London board schools and handed her a note before taking his seat and becoming deeply absorbed in his book, says the Tit-Bits.

The note read as follows: Miss B.—Please excuse James for not being there yesterday. He played truant, but I should think you don't need to lick him for it, as the boy he played truant with and 'an' him fell out, an' the boy licked him, an' a man they sawed caught him an' licked him an' the driver of a cart they hung to licked him also. Then his paw licked him, an' I gave him another one for sawing me, felling paw; so you need not lick him until next time. I should say he thinks he'd better keep at school hereafter.

One Way to Get a Carpet.

A woman who accompanied her husband up the Khyber pass in Afghanistan tells how she saw a fine Persian carpet and coveted it. An assistant to her host went out and returning said: "My head man says the owner of the carpet is a wicked old man who will not sell his carpet at any price, but he has gone for the night to sleep in a little village close by, which is beyond British boundaries. He wants to know if he shall make a hole in the wall of the mud hut and steal it while the old sinner sleeps. Shall we walk in at once and kill him and take it? He will do whichever memsadb likes." Memsadb, however, discovered that she could live without the carpet after all.

THE FINISHING BOLT.

"Harker says he is going to follow Dr. Wile's advice and bolt his beef steak."
"Sounds queer."
"Then he is going to bolt all raw clams he eats."
"Queer still."
"And the next he will bolt the chops."
"Great Mercury! What is his next bolt?"
"Why, a bolt to the cemetery."
—Chicago News.

"Are you the man," said an American coachman to the Duke Bernard of Saxe-Weimer, "that is to go in this carriage?" "Yes."
"Then I am the gentleman that is to drive you."

The man who was hurt by a bullet of applause is recovering, and the individual who was injured by the accidental discharge of his duty is still very low.

ROCK ME TO SLEEP.

BY FLORENCE PERCY.

Backward, turn backward, O Time in your flight,
Make me a child again just for to-night!
Mother, come back from the endless shore,
Take me again to your heart as of yore;
Kiss from my forehead the furrows of care,
Smooth the few silver threads out of hair,
Over my slumbers your loving watch keep—
Rock me to sleep, mother—rock me to sleep!

Backward, flow backward, O Tide of the years!
I am so weary of toil and of tears—
Toll without reason, tears in all vain—
Take them, and give me my childhood again!
I have grown weary of dust and decay—
Weary of flinging my soul-wealth away—
Weary of rooming for others to reap—
Rock me to sleep, mother—rock me to sleep!

Tired of the hollow, the base the untrue,
Mother, O mother, my heart calls for you!
Many a summer the grass has grown green,
Blossomed and faded our faces between;
Yet, with strong yearning and passionate pain,
Long I to-night for your presence again,
Come from the silence so long and so deep—
Rock me to sleep, mother—rock me to sleep!

Over my heart, in the days that are flown,
No love like mother's love has ever shone;
No other worship aches and endures,
Faithful, unselfish and patient like yours.
None like a mother can charm away pain,
From the sick soul and the world-weary brain,
Slumber's soft calm o'er my heavy lids creep,
Rock me to sleep, mother—rock me to sleep!

Come, let your crown hair, just lighten with gold,
Fall on your shoulder again as of old,
Let it drop over my forehead to-night,
Shedding my faint eyes away from the light;
For with its sunny and silken shadows once more
Happily will I through the sweet visions of yore—
Lovingly, softly his little white wings—
Rock me to sleep, mother—rock me to sleep!

Mother, dear mother, the years have been long
Since I last listened your lullaby song,
Sing, then, and unto my soul it shall seem
Womanhood's years have been only a dream,
Crisped to your heart in a loving embrace,
With your light lashed just sweeping my face,
Never hereafter to wake or weep—
Rock me to sleep, mother—rock me to sleep!

DEWDROPS OF WISDOM.

Individual righteousness will secure universal reform.

Where there is no hope, there can be no endeavor.

That man must be an utter cynic that is not made better by becoming a father.

One may be more cunning than another; but more cunning than all the world.

Mén had much rather be censured for want of morals, than for want of understanding.

Without good nature and gratitude men might as well live in a wilderness as in a civil society.

Charity obliges us not to mistrust a man; prudence not to trust him before we know him.

He who troubles himself more than he needs, grieves also more than is necessary; for the same weakness which makes him anticipate his misery makes him enlarge it too.

Selfishness is its own curse; it is a starving vice. The man who does no good, gets none. He is like the heath in the desert, neither yielding fruit, nor seeing when good comes.

He that can apprehend and consider vice with all her habits and seeing pleasure, can yet abstain and extinguish, and yet prefer that which is truly better, he is the true wayfaring Christian.

The glory of an age is often hidden from itself. Perhaps some word has been spoken in our day which we have not deigned to hear, but which is to grow clearer and louder through all ages.

The two most precious things this side the grave are our reputation and our life. But it is to be lamented that the most contemptible whisper may deprive us of the one, and the weakest weapon of the other.

SOME POETRY.

A Missouri farmer, whose hog had been killed by a train, and who imagined himself something of a poet, wrote these lines to the company's claim agent for settlement:

My razorback strolled down your track
A week ago today;
You ran 25 mine down the line
And snuffed his light away.
You can't blame me—the hog you see,
Slipped through the cattle gate;
So kindly pen a check for ten,
The dept to liquidate.

He was rather surprised a few days later to receive the following:
Old 25 came down the line
And killed your hog, we know;
But razorbacks on railroad tracks
Quite often meet with woe.
Therefore, my friend, we cannot send
The check for which you pine.
Just plant the dead; place o'er his head
"Here lies a foolish swine."
—Milwaukee Sentinel.

OUT LOOK WAS BAD.

Two ladies, who had known each other in years gone by, met on the street one day. One of them, who had been married for some years, was pushing a baby carriage in which were fine triplets, all girls. The other lady had been in the bonds of matrimony for a couple of weeks.

"What beautiful children!" exclaimed the newly married one with much interest, after the two friends had exchanged greetings. "Yes," replied the proud mother, "and it was the funniest coincidence. At the wedding supper the boys who played with my husband in the orchestra serenaded him, and played the 'Three Little Maids from 'The Mikado,' isn't that queer?" The newly married one gasped for breath and turned pale with horror. "Merciful heavens!" she gasped, "at our wedding supper a couple of weeks ago, Tom's friends serenaded him also, and they rendered the sextette from 'Lucia.'"

TARIFF BILL IN HOUSE

CHAIRMAN PAYNE PRESENTS BILL WHICH WILL BEAR HIS NAME.

Lumber Duty Placed At Half Of Present Schedule—Coal On Reciprocal Basis and Iron Ore and Wood Pulp on Free List—Inheritance Tax Also Provided For.

Washington, March 20.—The new tariff bill, which will bear the name of the chairman of the ways and means committee is now under consideration by the house, having been favorably reported. The bill contains 100,000 words and represents the judgment of the committee, based on over 8,000 pages of printed testimony, 30,000 letters and all the known statistics on the subject.

It is estimated that the revenue under the duties as prescribed will be $300,000,000.

Cut Lumber in Two

The lumber tariff is reduced 50 per cent and the same is true of steel rails and some other steel products.

Coal is placed on a reciprocal basis, as also are agricultural implements. They will be received free from any country that admits free similar articles exported from the United States. The tariff on wools, first and second class, is unchanged, as is also the imports on oil.

Reduction of 5 cents per hundred pounds on refined sugar is provided. Iron ore is admitted free. Hides are admitted free and shoes are reduced 40 per cent.

Wood Pulp Free

Wood pulp from countries not having an export duty on certain forest products is admitted free.

Printing paper tariff is reduced 66 2/3 per cent and 60 per cent, according to value.

Coffee, under the terms of the bill as drawn, will be admitted free of duty. No change is made in the tax on beer.

A heavy blow is dealt the importers of tea, which was free under the Dingley law. The bill fixes a duty of eight cents a pound from countries where tea is produced and nine cents from other countries.

The reduction of 50 per cent duty on lumber will work greatly to the advantage of Canadian lumbermen. It is claimed, and was opposed by the interests of the great Northwest timber belts. The arguments presented in favor of the reduction carried great weight, however. It was claimed that the prices of lumber had been excessive and that the great manufacturers have been curtailing the output for the purpose of increasing the market price.

Hard Fight Due

It is asserted, however, that this course has been taken by the Canadian manufacturers also, and there is every prospect of a hard fight over the lumber tariff before the question is settled.

It is expected that the establishment of free trade with the Philippines, even though limitations are placed on tobacco, cigars and sugar, will work an immediate benefit in increased traffic to the Pacific coast shipping interests.

The admission of wool pulp free means much to the Canadian producers and will have an important effect upon the manufacture of print paper.

Inheritance Tax

The inheritance tax is included, with the following provisions:

On the direct inheritance of from $10,000 to $100,000, one per cent tax.

On the direct inheritance of from $100,000 to $500,000, two per cent tax.

On direct inheritance of over $500,000, a tax of three per cent.

Collateral relatives and strangers receiving inheritances will pay 7 per cent on all amounts over $500.

The bill as presented also authorizes the issuance of treasury certificates to the amount of $250,000,000, to run for a period of one year.

In presenting the bill to the house, Chairman Payne said:

"The bill is a maximum and minimum tariff bill.

Revenues Improving

"We have a large deficit but the revenues under the present system are improving from month to month, as business conditions become better. The last normal year for imports was the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, and the committee has therefore taken the year 1906 as the basis upon which to form an estimate of the revenue producing qualities of the new bill.

"With a return to anything like normal conditions during the next fiscal year, it is safe to predict that the deficit will be entirely wiped out, but in case it is not the bill provides for an issue of Panama canal bonds to reimburse the treasury.

"There is also re-constructed a provision for the issue of certificates to run one year, for the purpose of replenishing the treasury and raising an amount from $100,000,000 to $250,000,000.

"The bill provides for reciprocal trade with the Philippines on articles, but limits the imports of sugar to be imported free to 300,000 tons, the wrapper tobacco to 300,000 pounds, filler tobacco to 3,000,000 pounds, and the free import of cigars is limited to 150,000,000 in any one fiscal year.

"In case of the importation of sugar, tobacco or cigars from the Philippines in excess of the limitations fixed in the bill, the imports must pay the full tariff rates."

PORTLAND IMPORTERS FEAR PHRASE IN TARIFF BILL

Washington, March 20.—Portland importers are telegraphing anxiously to Senator Chamberlain, expressing fear lest the new tariff bill go into effect immediately on its passage. The bill as introduced reads, "On and after the day following the passage of this act," making the new tariffs effective immediately.

The importers assert that such a provision, if finally adopted, would immensely injure them. One prominent house wares:

"If such a measure passes it would mean putting out of business practically every exporter on the Pacific coast. The bill should read 'on goods not actually in transit at the time of passage.'"

Pressure here seems to be for a bill effective immediately on its passage, the claim being that business interests have been disturbed by the revision agitation, and that it is necessary to settle all questions as soon as possible.

MAIL FOR BILL JUMPING HELD UNCONSTITUTIONAL

Wenatchee, March 23.—There will be no more imprisonment in Chelan county for beating board bills, according to a decision made by Judge Grishaw in the case of the state of Washington vs. Michael Swan in the superior court.

Swan was arrested a few days ago for beating the Great Northern company, at Cascade, under a 30-cent board bill, and after a trial at Leavenworth he was taken to jail to serve time enough to make up the costs which had accrued.

The case was then taken up in the superior court, upon the appointment of a local attorney to represent Swan. The information filed was demurred to on the grounds that the 1907 law is unconstitutional, and Judge Grishaw upheld the contention.

CONTRACT LET FOR TACOMA HIGH SCHOOL STADIUM

Tacoma, March 20.—Within a few days work will begin on the new high school stadium. The contract has been let to the Western Engineering company, whose bid was $85,174.

The stadium is one of the largest non-municipal contracts attempted here. The structure will seat, when completed, 30,000 people, or at a pinch 40,000, and will be 618 by 750 feet, with a height of 114 feet. Through taking advantage of a natural depression alongside the high school all grading expenses were eliminated. The stadium fronts directly on the bay, having one of the best water views to be had in the city. The construction is to be of reinforced concrete.

Territorial Officials Travel Too Much

Washington, March 22.—Territorial officials in Alaska, Arizona, New Mexico, Hawaii and Porto Rico will receive a shock soon, when they receive an official order from Secretary of the Interior Ballinger informing them that in the future they must remain in their territories except in cases of emergency. Mr. Ballinger called at the White House Saturday and his contemplated order received the approval of President Taft. The order is intended to put an end to governors and other territorial officials coming to Washington during sessions of congress and spending many months here lobbying for desired measures or for statehood.

Labor Union's Fight Fulfills Portland, Or., March 22.—The Central Labor Council of Portland, including every union in the city and numbering thousands of members, has passed a resolution condemning in strong terms the proposed appointment of Charles W. Fulton as federal judge of Oregon, and ordered its secretary to forward this protest to President Taft. The same action will be taken by the State Federation of Labor, it is said.

Taft Wants Goethals to Hurry Canal

Washington, March 22.—During a recent conversation between President Taft and Chairman Goethals of the Istman canal commission, the president expressed his desire that the canal be completed by the 4th of July, 1913. Col. Goethals, however, is not at all sanguine of accomplishing any such result, but holds an opinion that the best possible opinion that January 1, 1915, will see the canal open to navigation.

COIT PARTY LINES

TARIFF REVISION ATTITUDE WILL BE GOVERNED BY LOCALITY

Members of Congress to Work For Interests of Individual Constituency—Republican and Democratic Leaders to Vote Together on Some Schedules.

Washington, March 22.—That there will be a lively contest over the tariff bill is evidenced by the preparations made by the sponsors for the bill and by those who oppose it.

The committee's old room is on the house floor of the capitol, and Saturday "field headquarters" were established there by Mr. Payne.

Directly beneath the headquarters of the Payne forces are the headquarters of the enemy, the Democrats. Champ Clark has taken possession of John Sharp Williams old room and Saturday was occupied with the preparation of the report of the minority. The Democratic members have held "committee of war" for the past few days in the Clark headquarters.

They will make a strong fight against every protective duty for the Payne bill unless it is a revenue measure.

While the Payne and Clark forces will be lined up against each other on many questions, there probably will be several bills on which they will join in fighting the opposition. This is due to the fact that Mr. Payne is not a high tariff man.

Leaders Together on Lumber

When an amendment is offered to decrease the duty on lumber to one dollar a thousand feet, as provided by the Payne bill, Mr. Payne and Mr. Clark will stand together for the decrease, and each will find that some of his trusted aides have deserted him. This illustrates the feeling that prevails throughout the membership of the house on the subject.

There is one point about the new bill on which a little conspiracy is existing in the house, but which its members believe will be much considered in the senate. That is the revision of the present tariff law with regard to the duties on sugar.

Litigation involving thousands of dollars is pending in the courts because of the difficulty of determining under what paragraph of the Dingley law a duty of one cent per gallon should be imposed. To prevent any similar difficulties in the future, rice wine or sake is specifically included in the paragraph of the Payne bill imposing a duty of one cent per gallon on still wines. Numerous changes for similar purposes have been incorporated in the new bill.

Payne Opens Eight

The Payne bill will today be laid before the house for discussion, and Chairman Payne will make the first speech in support of the bill. It will be the beginning of the general debate on the bill. Mr. Clark, the minority leader, will follow Mr. Payne with the first speech in opposition, and these two representatives will be followed by other members of their respective parties until all who so desire shall have spoken.

When the bill is up for amendments the provisions will be discussed in speeches of not more than five minutes duration. It is the intention of the Democrats to offer innumerable amendments, and it is said Republicans will also suggest changes. It is not believed that the voting stage will be reached in less time than two weeks.

The senate will probably consider and pass the census bill during the week, and the disposition of the bill is to accept the bill as it passed the house. That measure eliminated the non-competitive feature of the bill, which was objectionable to President Roosevelt and which is equally so to President Taft.

Democrats Explain

Another explanation is forthcoming as to the course of certain Democrats in opposing Minority Leader Clark last Monday by voting for the Fitzgerald amendments to the tariff law.

Representatives Kelliber and Peters, of Massachusetts, and Representative Burton Harrison, of New York, issued a statement in which they assert that so generally the action of the Democrats who voted for the amendments was misrepresented and misunderstood that they wish to present to those interested the facts.

The Fitzgerald amendments are defended as effective in the curtailment of the power of the speaker. For six months Mr. Fitzgerald acknowledged his belief in the superiority of the Democratic side, had been preparing the amendments, it is said, but no opportunity was offered to bring them before the Democratic caucus for consideration.

It was unable to do so because of the ill-handled manner adopted by a few friends of Mr. Clark.

Referring to the fight in the house, the three members say that when Mr. Clark offered his resolutions, he refused any Democrat a chance to speak; and then he did the very thing the members have been deprecating and fighting against for years. He moved the previous question, they state.

"It is bad enough to be gagged by our opponents, but when the muzzel was clapped on us by our friends we protested, and successfully."

GREAT FRENCH TELEGRAPH STRIKE IS COMPROMISED

Paris, March 22.—The great strike of the employees of the postoffice department, which originally has isolated Paris and cut off France from communication with the outside world for the last week, is near an end. The strike committee decided to call off the employees and make the first move to effect a settlement. The government will meet the committee half way.

Representatives of the linemen called yesterday upon M. Barthou, minister of public works, ostensibly for the purpose of protesting against the charges that they had cut the wires, but during the course of the interview they communicated to the minister the terms on which the allied associations would resume work. These were, first, the designation of M. Simeyru, under secretary of posts and telegraphs; second, that no employees should be dismissed on account of the strike.

They desired also the assurance that the delegates of the association hereafter should be permitted to lay their grievances directly before the minister of public works.

M. Barthou received the delegation in a conciliatory spirit. He said that the government could not discuss the resignation of an official except with parliament, but he gave the delegation the satisfaction it demanded on other points.

At the conclusion of the interview the strike committee met and decided upon resumption of work at once.

HAVE THE MONEY TO EXTEND TRACTION LINES

Walla Walla, March 20.—Eastern capital to the extent of $5,000,000 is available for the proposed Walla Walla & Columbia Traction Company, according to an announcement made by Dr. C. S. Ellis, president of the company, following a meeting of the executive board of the corporation. The money, he stated, is to be expended in building an electric line from Dayton, through Walla Walla to Walla and Pasco. Engineers will start the survey of the route on Monday.

This makes two companies now in the field with similar projects, the Columbia & Walla Walla Valley Traction Company having announced that it meant business and would be throwing dirt within thirty days. Its promoters claim it will connect with the Gravelly line. The right of way for the road has been secured. The Walla Walla Valley Traction Company is also planning extensions.

SAY NORTH COAST ROAD IS A HARRIMAN PROJECT

Portland, Or., March 22.—The Oregon says: "The mysterious North Coast road that has so long been an enigma in the Northwest railroad situation, is believed to have been connected up with the O. R. & N. The North Coast line, up to this time remained an unguessed riddle, but now it is thought the Harriman interests have been behind the project from its inception, and that the railroad will invade the Hill territory in Eastern Washington for the purpose of diverting traffic to the O. R. & N. and Union Pacific that would otherwise be handled over the Northern Pacific or Great Northern."

The building of the big bridge across the Columbia near Kennewick has apparently let the cat out of the bag. It is now believed that the time for secrecy has about passed and that soon there will be an official announcement verifying the report.

Yankee Enterprise Electrifying London

London, March 20.—Fully 150,000 persons visited the big American department store here on the occasion of its formal opening. The great majority of the visitors were women who were anxious to discover how the American store was like. Yankee enterprise, as it is generally called here, has electrified the old firms by frantic efforts to outdo the new competitor.

Protest Against Removal

Washington, March 20.—The entire Washington delegation has joined in a protest to the war department against its removing department of Columbia headquarters from Vancouver barracks to another point. The members can find no good reason for the removal, and it is believed that the combined protest will settle this question, which has caused Vancouver some uneasiness.

IN THE TIME OF WAITING.

How People Conduct Themselves at Social Times in Their Lives.

Miss Medora hurried to let in her sisters, who sat wearily into the nearest chairs. Miss Lucy fumbled for a handkerchief, and dabbed her kind, near-sighted blue eyes; Miss Eliza slowly shook her head but her melancholy bonnet still further askew, and wiggled a gaunt thumb to test a worn place in her glove.

"Well, sister, how do they take it—poor things?" asked Miss Medora.

"Beautifully," said Miss Lucy, dabbling again. "It would melt your heart to see their butts, brass faces, and everything going on as usual, and think how soon it will be changed."

"Rose looks like a shadow already, but there she was, laughing and saying funny things, and making everybody else laugh, too—even her mother, and her heart must be just breaking, poor woman! But sometimes Rose could surprise her into a laugh before she knew it."

"Even with the child looking as she does, I don't believe anybody who didn't know her could guess how long things are there. All that sunshine and love and laughter—it didn't seem possible death could be hovering in the room. Oh, they're fine!"

Miss Eliza considered her glove more intently, and differed. "I didn't like it," she said. "Why pretend? And to joke! After all, it is a solemn time. And when we went to sympathize, to sit instead and listen to funny stories! I thought it rather dreadful. Mere trifles didn't seem to me in place."

Miss Lucy's gentle eyes shone, and quickly misted.

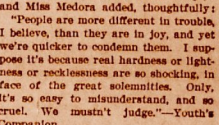

"Indeed, no, Eliza," she agreed. "Not if they stood for trivial thoughts. But I think that Rose's one idea is to leave a happy, unchanged memory; and that she shall have the brightest and warmest and cheery bonnet she's loved to the very last."

"I was glad you could all laugh together instead of crying, though I didn't expect it any more than you did. We three haven't been gay, like them; we're quiet folk; but if I knew I was to go, next week say, I believe I'd like things just as usual, and people to behave just the same."

Miss Eliza pulled off the doubtful glove, and failed to notice that she tore it. "Don't!" she interrupted, sharply; and Miss Medora added, thoughtfully:

"People are more different in trouble, I believe, than they are in joy, and yet we're quicker to condemn them. I suppose it's because real hardships or lightness or recklessness are so shocking in face of the great solemnities. Only, it's so easy to misunderstand, and so cruel. We mustn't judge." Youth's compassion.

SPOILING THE SILVER

Dogone the luck! Just looky there at An Eliza Chase, A-puttin' ashes on the bill To spoil our country place, She hasn't got no use for us, She acts like we're to blame 'Cause she ain't never found a man Who'd like to change her name.

O' course that spoils this bill for us, But, say—we won't forget, We'll even up the score with her. An' soon, too, you kin bet, For that old dog of hers we've got A nice big can in store. Our game is awful mean sometimes, That is, when we get sore.

Glacial Wonders.

The grandeur of nature's forces may be understood when one of the glaciers of Disco Bay, Greenland, is studied. Helland estimated that it had a thickness of 200 feet, with a breadth of 18,400 feet, and was found to be moving at the rate of forty-seven feet per diem. And this Disco bay glacier was only one of the many. Ribk estimates that on the north side of Greenland there are 120,000 square miles of territory, all contributing their supply of icebergs.

A Diffident Position.

A young captain who was drilling the awkward squad commanded thus: "Now, my men, listen to me. When I 'halt' put the foot that's on the ground back in the ground in the air and remain motionless."—Success Magazine.

You often hear that this is a free country, and that a man is at liberty to express his opinion. It is not true.

HOUSE PASSES BILL FOR TAKING THIRTEENTH CENSUS

Washington, March 20.—The first piece of legislation to be acted upon by the house during the extra session was the bill providing for the taking of the thirteenth census, which was passed. The measure gives to the civil service commission jurisdiction over appointments and provides for the printing of the reports by the government printing office. As enacted at the last session the bill stripped the civil service commission such authority as it there was a provision allowing some of the printing to be done by private firms. President Roosevelt vetoed the bill.

ENGLAND IS ALARMED

"GERMAN PERIL" IS CAUSE OF "CONSIDERABLE UN-EASINESS."

Country Demands Eight Battleships to Keep Navy Above Next Nearest—If Appeal to People Is Made Present Radical Party Will Lose Out.

London, March 22.—The dramatic confession from the cabinet ministers in the recent debate in the house of commons that Germany had caught the British admiralty napping and stolen a march on the country by expediting the construction of Dreadnaughts, and that Great Britain would have little, if any margin in the number of new ships in 1912-13, has been followed by something like a panic throughout the United Kingdom.

There is no doubt that were Premier Asquith at this time to appeal to the country, little would be left of the present radical party in the house of commons.

Demand Eight Ships

The direct vote of censure which A. Balfour, leader of the opposition, will lead against the government early this week, will bring the issue as to whether four or eight Dreadnaughts should be definitely included in this year's naval program squarely before parliament, although here is a chance that the national outcry will cause Premier Asquith to yield and give definite assurance that the four "phantom" Dreadnaughts will be constructed this year in addition to the four provided for in the estimate.

Navy League Active

The Navy League, which represents no particular party, is in the forefront of this movement. The movement has the support of the most influential people of the country and plenty of funds are promised. The league insists that the minimum of the program for the construction of Dreadnaughts in 1909-10 must be eight, claiming that less will not suffice to maintain Great Britain's naval supremacy.

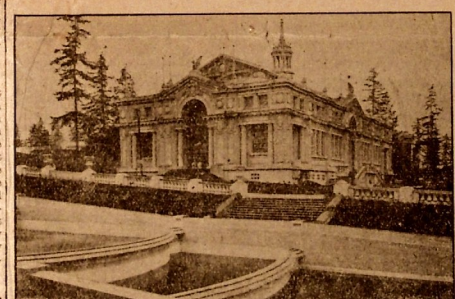

The newspapers, ever since Tuesday's debate, have been filled with lurid picture of the "German peril."

State Forestry Building Receives Last Fir Pillar

The Washington state forestry building, one of the most striking structures at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, will be finished before April 16, the time set in the contract for the completion of the building. During the past week the last of the huge fir logs which compose the mighty colonnade was set in place and the derricks removed. Work on the building is ahead of time and all the material needed for its completion is on the ground.

The forestry building is one of the seven structures built by the state which will become the property of the University of Washington when the exposition closes. The building is like a Greek temple done in rustic, with fir logs from five to six feet in diameter and from forty to fifty feet in length for pillars. At close range the series of columns look like a forest of gigantic trees.

Each massive pillar, the weight of which is 60,000 pounds, is supported by a concrete pier. Each pier is capable of carrying a load of 160 tons and the general construction of the building is such that it should stand for a century. In the 3,000,000 feet of lumber used in the structure there are no planed surfaces. The outside pillars have their tough bark as they came from the forest, while the logs that are placed in the inner columns have been stripped.

The front of the building is 320 feet in length. It consists of two pavilions and a curved colonnade. Forty feet above the ground, a rustic balcony has been built where visitors may have an excellent view of the exposition grounds. At each end of the building log towers will be connected by stairways with the balcony.

The fir logs used in the building were selected for their symmetry and clearness. To get them to the building site, it was necessary to build a spur track from the Northern Pacific to the back door of the structure. It required two flat cars to carry one of the huge 84-foot logs. The exhibit to be placed in the building will show the various stages of the manufacture of lumber from the rough log to the finished product.

NAVAL WAR CODE

LONDON CONFERENCE FORMULATED DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES.

Will Be Guide for Government of International Prize Court to Be Established at the Hague—Several Changes of Importance From Old Practice.

Washington, March 23.—The declaration of principles regarding the law of maritime war agreed upon by the conference of the ten principal maritime nations of the world, held in London during the last winter and known as the maritime conference, were made public at the state department yesterday.

The principles enunciated in the declaration are to act as a guide for the government of an international prize court to be established at the Hague. The American delegates are satisfied the code contains much that will be of great advantage in time of war. This is especially the case with the articles treating of contraband, the estimate being made by the army and the head of conditional contraband exports approximating at this time $900,000,000 a year would be affected in the event of war, and under the head of free contraband exports approximating $400,000,000.

The essence of the declaration on blockade is that it must be confined to the ports and coasts belonging to or occupied by the army and that the blockade to be binding must be effective.

The Anglo-American doctrine of notice of blockade was adopted as against the continental. This is that notice through diplomatic channels of the establishment of such a blockade is sufficient.

Compromise on Contraband

A compromise was reached in the matter of the doctrine of continuous voyage, all parties making concessions. The chief features of the Anglo-American doctrine that the ultimate destination of the contraband shall determine whether such cargo is subject to seizure as contraband is retained in these cases of specially designed, but is given up in the case of conditional contraband. On the question of contraband, the conference adopted these classifications: Absolute, conditional, not contraband.

Absolute contraband includes generally articles and implements of war and that which may be used in war. Conditional contraband includes food supplies, fodder and grain, clothing suitable for military use, gold and silver, coined and in bars, and paper representing money; airships and flying machines; fuel, lubricants, powder and explosives not specially designed for war use, barbed wire, horse shoes and shoeing outfits.

Articles which cannot be declared contraband of war include: Raw cotton, raw wool and other raw materials of textile industries, natural and artificial fertilizers, comprising nitrates and phosphates susceptible of use in agriculture; ores, chinaware and glassware, paper, agricultural machinery, machinery used in mines, textile industries and printing.

Article seven provides that any person belonging to the armed forces of the enemy and found on board a neutral vessel may be made a prisoner of war, even though there be no ground for seizing the vessel.

To meet the situation arising during the Russo-Japanese war, when neutral vessels were seized by the Russians and sunk on the high seas because she had no nearby ports to which to take them, the conference declared in article 48 that a neutral vessel which had been seized cannot be destroyed by the captor, but must be conducted into the proper port in order that the validity of the capture may be determined upon. As an exception to this rule it is declared that in a neutral vessel which is a belligerent and which is subject to confiscation may be destroyed if the observance of article 48 might jeopardize the safety of the war vessel or the success of the operations in which the latter is actually engaged.

The transfer of a hostile vessel to a neutral flag, when it takes place before the beginning of hostilities, shall be valid unless it shall be proved that the transfer was made for the purpose of escaping the consequences which would follow because the vessel belonged to the enemy.

Libel Cases to Be Tried

Washington, March 22.—There will be no abandonment of the Panama libel prosecution by the administration, according to a high administration official. Attorney General Wickham's investigation of these cases, it is said, has satisfied him that the government should proceed with the prosecution. Whether he has advised President Taft of his attitude is not known.

PAPERS BY THE PEOPLE

PUBLIC OFFICE NEEDS EXPERTS.

By Prof. A. Lawrence Lowell.

The administration of a great city cannot be conducted efficiently and at the same time be kept in touch with public needs without a combination of the expert and the representative of outside opinion, and the relation that ought to exist between these two is plain. The current management and the initiative in the main ought to lie with the expert, but he ought to work under the constant oversight and control of non-professional men.

Such a relation has grown up spontaneously in our great commercial and educational bodies, in the president and directors of a railroad or a bank, in the president and trustees of a university or college, for example, and it could be introduced into almost any form of city government, for it is not inconsistent either with the plan of boards of commissioners or with that of a mayor's cabinet.

In order to set up the proper relation between the expert and the non-professional representative of the public it is not necessary to prescribe their duties by law, but to make the distinction between them perfectly clear, and that distinction must be based upon the essential difference in the functions to be performed.

The expert is expected to make his public work his career. He should devote his whole time to it, receive a liberal salary and be protected from removal except for cause. The non-professional is not to manage his department, but to see that it is properly managed. He ought not to be expected to give a great deal of his time to it, ought to be paid nothing, or a much lower salary than the expert, and ought to give an account of his stewardship by coming up for reappointment or election at fixed intervals.

MEN SLAVES TO THEIR WIVES.

By Lillian Bell.

Slavery has not been entirely abolished in the United States. There are slaves in plenty who cannot be rescued by any federal or State law relative to peonage. We even know these slaves, you and I, yet possibly we do not recognize them as such until we know their home life. Then we know that these slaves, all big, strong men, are the slaves of little, round, soft, pink-and-white women, their wives, who hold their husbands in bondage by an assumed helplessness which causes men who are its victims to wriggle with delight, and women who are compelled to observe it, to go out and hit something.

But before you get too irritated at the spectacle of the abject slavery to which a small, fluffy woman can reduce a 300-pound man, who bullies his clerks and swears at his office boy, stop and think how she does it and why, and you will soon calm down. She keeps if he crosses her, pretends sickness if he reproaches her, plays dead if he scolds her; she can't do a thing for herself; she runs him into debt, flatters him into a way of life beyond his means and keeps him her slave by making him believe he is the whole thing and that she couldn't live without him. So that, far from being an object of universal pity, the husband who is a slave is often the most glibly creature in existence with a vanity that is a sin not to subvert and a conceit which it becomes a crime not to utilize.

Some men are so supreme in their own estimation that not only their own wives but even the wayfaring woman, hurrying to get home, cannot resist the temptation to pluck him in passing, it is so easy to snatch a perquisite by an inevitable tribute to what he knows is true of himself. In other words, many of the so-called easy marks among men are not merely big-hearted, good-natured brothers. They are often men of such sublime egotism that a 60-pound woman could faint in the arms of one such, and he would half kill himself trying to carry her all alone because she had often told him his touch was so gentle and so different from that of most men.

OUR NATIONAL LOSS FROM FIRE.

By Samuel H. Adams.

We hear much, in this peaceful country, about Germany's burden of militarism. Well, our national burden would pay for the Kaiser's whole army maintenance and leave a surplus annually of twenty millions for a fireworks fund wherewith to appease our pyromaniac appetite. If Germany is oppressed by wars and the rumors of wars, how much more sorely is the United States oppressed by fire and the evils that attend it! And the worst of it is that this loss, in great part, is needless and superfluous; incredibly and idiotically stupid and short-sighted.

Europe proves much. No nation there but would be appalled at such a fire bill as ours. In the forty-five principal cities of Europe there is less than one fire annually ($8, to be exact) to every thousand inhabitants. In this country we maintain a general average of four and a half fires per thousand persons. The per capita loss by flames in Italy is 12 cents yearly; in Germany, 49 cents; in thirty of the largest European cities, 61 cents, and in 252 American cities the per capita destruction averages $3.10. Boston, in many respects the most scientifically administered and municipally progressive city in this country, has a yearly bill of a million and a half dollars from loss by burning. The European city of equal size gets along with one-tenth of that sacrifice. Our debt side of the fire ledger sums up a heavier total than the combined losses of any other six civilized nations in the world. Nothing this side of the sun equals us for combustion.—Everybody's.

SEALING IN GREENLAND.

Icebergs Lead Picturesqueness as Hunters Go Forth in Kayaks.

Sealing in Greenland is both arduous and sportive, the latter compensating the hunters for the hardships which they endure year in and year out, for that is their principal industry. Men of several nations, mostly northern and including the Japanese, are regularly in the chase for seals in Greenland and other arctic waters. The Greenland hunters take to the waters sort of sag or twist or something in the way which I sit in a chair that makes me, even when I think I am sitting nicely and quietly, break or stir something.

"Of course, I never think of sitting down at all in a Chippendale or Louis XVI, or any other sort of slender, spiderlegged chair, because for me such a chair might as well be mounted on broom splints. Men heavier than I could sit in such chairs and maybe tip back in them without doing damage; but if I should so much as a leg or two so that the rump may drop out at that end of that chair. "Honest Injun, I don't know why it is, but I certainly do seem to be hard on chairs."

BREAKS ALL HIS CHAIRS.

Mr. Throxtleton Just Can't Help It, Though He Tries.

"Some men are hard on clothes. It is my misfortune," said Mr. Throxtleton, "to be hard on chairs."

"And I am not so heavy either. I only weigh about 175, but somehow I always wreck sooner or later all the chairs I sit in. I seem to have some str in a chair like that its legs would creak and groan and it would go down with me on it in a heap.

"Why is this, do you suppose? I am not a restless person. I don't twist and turn andidget in a chair, and yet no chair seems to stay together if I once begin to use. I soon sit through a cane seated chair, and I have in time splintered seats of veneer.

"If I use any particular rocking chair for long I start the back away from the arms, and if I sit in an armchair I work the arms loose; and any sort of a chair that I sit in for any length of time I am sure to start it at all its joints so that it gets weny and wiggly; and I am likely to spread teridge. A boy at Combe Bank, Christopher Wadsworth, late bishop of Lincoln, and Charles Wadsworth, bishop of St. Andrews, were my playfellows. I frankly admit I was very mischievous.

"The two Wadsworths and I conceived the wicked intention of robbing the door. The door was always kept locked, and there was nothing for it but to enter through the roof. There was a dinner party that day, but there were no grapes. This is probably the only case on record where three future bishops were guilty of larceny. Were we punished? No. We were discreet. We gave ourselves up and were forgiven."

Reel for Clotheslines.

A West Virginia man has an invention that will lighten the labors of the maid-of-all-work and the washerwoman and turn the taking down of the humble clothesline into an artistic operation. This man has devised a reel on which the line can be gathered quickly and neatly, and she who presides over the family wash will no longer have to loop the rope over the thumb and elbow. The reel is in the form of a huge spool or iron framework, with a handle in the center by which it may be held and another handle at one end by which it may be turned. The line is fastened to a V-shaped bend in the hub and rolled over the reel with neatness and dispatch. If the line is wet the open framework gives it a better chance to dry than when it is folded in the old way.

Stuffed Prunes.
Steam prunes until tender, but not broken. Then pit and fill cavities thus formed with chopped nuts, raisins or dates. Return the liquor drained from fruit to the fire, bring to a boil, and stir into it one-half-box of gelatine dissolved in one-fourth-cup of cold water. Pour this around prunes, then add in a cold place to harden. Serve with sweetened cream.

Mothers will find Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup the best remedy to use for their children during the teething period.

Drawn Butter sauce.
Put two tablespoonfuls of flour and a little salt in a bowl, and half a pint of water, a little at a time; work it into a smooth, put it into a saucepan, let it come slowly to a boil, stirring often. When it has boiled a minute or two add by degrees two ounces of butter, stirring all the time until it is entirely incorporated with the flour and water; boil up once and season to taste.

Pettit's Eye Salve 100 Years Old relieves tired eyes, quickly cures eye aches, inflamed, sore, watery or itchy-irritated eyes. All druggists, or Howard Bros., Buffalo, N. Y.

In the recently published letters of Mrs. Blaine appear the delightful sentences: "I miss Mr. Blaine. I cannot bear the orderly array of my life. I miss the envelopes in the gray, the bespattered table linen, the uncertainty of the meals, for you know he always starts out on his constitutional when he hears them taking in dinner. I miss his unvarying attention and as constant neglect." The amount of affection and humor in those words reveals a great wife who had something akin to literary genius.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. Malthoid Roofing Saved the lumber, coal and building plant of A. I. Schowalter & Co., of Halstead, Kan., from fire last March. The south wind blew the flames from a barn filled with hay directly on the sheds of this company. These sheds were roofed with Malthoid, while the sides were covered with corrugated iron. The heat was so intense that it ignited the wood back of the corrugated iron and it was only with difficulty extinguished. The fire-resisting qualities of Malthoid Roofing saved the roof, which was subjected to the most heat.

A report comes from British India that a plot to murder the royal family has been discovered, and that 1,200 arrests have been made, and that batches of prisoners are being blown from the guns daily. COMMERCIAL CLUB.

Minutes of a meeting of the Kirkland Commercial club, March 22d, 1908.

Meeting called to order by President Newell.

Minutes of last meeting read and approved as read.

The following bills were allowed: A. O. W. Hall rent last half of 1908, $6.00; stamps, $3.00; Piper & Co., views and photographs, $11.00.

It was moved and carried that the club extend a vote of thanks to R. H. Collins for his splendid work at Olympia in behalf of the canal bill. There was much interest taken in the bill just passed at Olympia in which no shooting was allowed on Lake Washington nor within one mile of its shore, several members insisting that Miss Getty had not been given the credit due her for her efforts in originating the bill and placing it before the legislature. It was resolved that a committee of two be appointed to draw up resolutions and select some suitable topic for our appreciation of her efforts in having the bill introduced and passed in which Lake Washington and its shores are made a game preserve. The president appointed R. H. Collins and P. Redman.

The matter of providing shelter and hitching places for teams during the fair was discussed and R. H. Collins and Wm. R. Stevens appointed as a committee to make such arrangements, if found advisable.

Mr. Courtney recommended that a public watering place be provided in Kirkland near the Ferry dock and was given authority to investigate and report at the next meeting. It was moved and carried that the club pay the expenses of Mr. Collins while at Olympia in the interest of the Lake Washington canal bill.

Moved to adjourn.
WM. R. STEVENS, Secretary.

Again we feel it our duty to say a few words about the walk along the water front, which is in a most awful condition and if not attended to will be the means of causing the town a lawsuit. Lights should be kept in the hole south of the drug store. Somebody is negligent of this duty. After an accident it will be too late.

During the last couple of weeks there has been some anxiety over the taxing of dogs and the shutting up of cows. At the last meeting of the council the matter was quite thoroughly gone over and the matter adjusted to the satisfaction of the majority of the council by allowing the cows to run and authorizing the marshal to collect a dog tax of $1.00 on males and $2.00 on females. This should be the cause of having people dispose of a great many useless curs.

METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Last Sunday morning the attendance was good and our pastor preached what he termed a wash day sermon, but remarks like these were passed, "Give us some more wash day sermons." Witnesses for Christ.

It was shown that nominal Christians by imperfectly reflecting Christ - give the wrong conception of Christianity and the church, therefore we should cleanse the mirror of our teaching, example and life, so that Christ and the church may not be spoken of in last Sunday evening.

Last Sunday evening Dr. Colgrove, pastor of the Baptist church was well, and he invited the pastor of the Methodist church and his congregation to worship in his church, promising to return the visit and conduct a service for us at some future time. The service was characterized by the most cordial fellowship.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will preach on the subject, "The Presence of Christ in the Church." "Hot Cakes in Kirkland."

Our pastor moved to Kirkland last week and is now living in Mr. Sharp's house, one block north of the church. We are planning a splendid Easter Service, let each one do his part to make it a great success.

No tardies have been reported for this month.

More than 23 per cent of the students enrolled are in the High school. Who can show a better record?

The A. Y. P. management have offered to admit all school children to grounds on Saturday, 27th, if they are accompanied by their teachers. It is hoped that enough patrons and children will go so that we may have a boat take us direct to the grounds.

A boat has been secured and school children will be taken free of charge. The boat will leave Kirkland 1 p. m., and the Fair grounds at 4 p. m.

The students of the 5th and 6th grades have purchased an organ for their room, they hope to pay for it with proceeds of an entertainment themselves. This will be the first program given by that room alone. Come and encourage the little folk.

At a fire drill Monday the house was cleared in 1 1/2 minutes. This time can easily be reduced.

Miss Christina Clark, one of our teachers last year, was a Bellevue visitor Saturday.

Once again the angel of death has visited this community and again has plucked one of its fairest buds; this time the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Peterson, when he was attacked with a mild case of cerebral brain fever, which in a few hours alarmed the parents and their neighbors. At seven o'clock in the evening a trained nurse was called in and a little later a physician from Seattle was sent for and everything possible was done for the little sufferer without avail. As the first dawn of day was visible in the far east his spirit took flight from its earthly abode and into the Great Beyond.

Herold was a loving child and a favorite with all that knew him. At an early age he showed a remarkable talent for singing, and before his late illness was able to sing several songs to perfection. Up to the very last in the agonizing hours he was humming his favorite song. We trust he will always be singing them in the arms of Him who said, "Suffer little children to come unto Me, and forbid them not, for such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

CARD OF THANKS.
We wish to thank the many friends and neighbors for their kind sympathy and beautiful flowers in their hour of sorrow and bereavement.
MR. AND MRS. A. A. PETERSON.

PROMPT ACTION.

A few weeks ago Fred Stolley's house in South Kirkland was damaged by fire. He was insured in the Germania Fire Insurance Co., of New York, and five days after notification was given the company, the loss was adjusted and, through its agent, C. L. Parrish, a check given for the same. Mr. Stolley has a good word for the Germania, and cheerfully recommends it to any one who needs insurance.

J. W. Clae is making extensive improvements.

C. Norman made a business trip to Seattle on Wednesday.

The various sick people are improving under the care of Dr. Kieffer.

Mr. Leem has secured the service of Mr. Kempel, who is said to be the best horsehoer on the Coast.

The County has a surveying crew straightening and shortening the state road. Another party, headed by Mr. Miller, is working North of the Perrigo place.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wright of Vashon Island attended the ball Saturday night and spent Sunday with Mrs. Wright's mother, Mrs. Brown.

The surveyors were in town Monday making some changes for the macadamized road that is to be built through Redmond this summer.

A. L. Parks proprietor of the Star livery, has sold out to Mark Baker and Emerson Miller. We wish the new proprietors success in their undertaking.

One of J. F. Webber's shingle mills, which has been shut down for repairs started again Thursday morning. They expect to keep both mills running all summer.

The Campbell bros. of the Campbell Lumber Co., were in town this week looking after their business here. They employ at the present about two hundred men.

The big school man and the little school man took a ride in a shingle mobile, their Auburn hair waved lovely in the breeze, but their faces looked wry. Next time they will try the shoemaker's leather tired Otto buggy.

Mr. Charles Marth and his bride returned last Saturday from Colorado, where Mr. Marth has been for the past year. This is Mrs. Marth's first visit to Washington, we extend to her a hearty welcome to our town and hope she will like both Redmond and its people.

The masquerade ball at the Redmond hall last Saturday night was well attended, sixty tickets were sold. It was Mr. Reed's busy night again, and he did not shrink the responsibility but remembered everyone. Stanley Norman did a hustling business at his lemonade stand.

O. A. Wiley lost a valuable horse last Monday. Mr. Wiley believes in cremation as Redmond does not. He had a crematory and Mr. Wiley being of an inventive turn of mind, he built one after his own pattern, in which he disposed of the remains of the horse, although he sat up nearly all night to keep the fire going. Mr. Wiley says that he thinks it worked nearly as well as did Mr. Thomas's crematory in Seattle, but he is not going to have it patented, for he believes there is more money in live horses than in dead ones.

TOLT ITEMS.

There were other good pieces also. The social was voted a success socially as well as financially.

Mr. Overy, of Seattle, has been looking over his property for the last few days.

Mr. Dodge and family have finally moved to their home in Fremont.

Mr. J. W. Alexander is keeping bachelor's hall on his ranch near Fall City.

The social given by the club class was a great success; $22.50 was taken in.

Miss Lulu Bagwell is president. There were 25 present. Games were played, ice cream and cake were served by the young people while they told their experience. One young man handed in his dollar and said that he sold a pig. Another said that he found his rolling up the hill,—he was rolling up the hill.

The play given at Fall City by the elocution class under the direction of Mrs. Edna Fowler Parich was very good. The book, "Sunny, a Xmas Guest," was recited by the class, while songs brightened the evening. The songs were sung and acted out by six young girls; $31.25 was taken in. It was worth a quarter any time.

Mr. and Mrs. Holmes, of Ballard, are visiting with Will Richardson.

Mr. Will Richardson, wife and friends, spent Monday of this week at the Snoqualmie Falls.

Mrs. Amaler, Mrs. Bagwell, Mrs. Lord and Mr. Stuart were Seattle visitors this week.

Miss Nina Stephenson, of Fall City, spent Sunday in Tolt.

Mr. Keely, of Seattle, is visiting friends in the valley.

The president opened the meeting by giving her experience, which we think very good. She began: "I've earned my dollar. Do you want to know how? Just listen and I'll tell you in a breath, I will tell you."

A young lady said that: "I had to earn a dollar, I had to make a rhyme. But by hard rubbing and scrubbing, I earned my dime."

Five cents I first earned By teaching a prayer To a boy who's forgotten How to say it by now.

Then for mother a batch of light bread I did make And set in the oven all ready to bake. It cooked for an hour, the color was fine, And without even tasting she paid me a dime.

Next day to a certain young man in this town I gave five lines of a rhyme said at the right time Brought in a good sum, I must say.

Then next to the junk man in trouble I struck, And sold him my rubbers and some other old truck.

But how to earn more I was in a sad plight, And to my overworked brain was given no light. I thought and I thought, till at last to my mind Came the thought of a bachelor Whose heart's always kind.

To him in my trouble I immediately went, And away to earn money right soon I was sent.

His clothes we have no,— Not much dirt could be found, So to ironing and pressing I set got around.

Soon all was pressed nicely And next day Gene came down And a bright fifty-cent piece He gladly paid own."

Taken up,— 4 stray horses—2 bays and 2 grays. Owner may have same by proving ownership and paying expenses. J. G. Robinson, Tolt, Wn.

Don't forget that C. L. Parrish is still in the Insurance business and save you money on your risks.
