KIRKLAND COMMERCIAL CLUB

ORGANIZATION HAS ACCOMPLISHED MUCH FOR THE EAST SIDE MEMBERSHIP GROWING

The people residing east of Lake Washington in King county, feeling that there was work to be taken up for the improvement of that part of King county, called a meeting in Kirkland on December 15th, 1906, for the purpose of organizing a club, and elected J. F. Brallier temporary chairman, and Wm. R. Stevens, temporary secretary, and appointed the following committee to draft a constitution and by-laws: R. H. Collins, Geo. Wittenmyer, J. J. Elliott, C. L. Parish and C. L. Andrews. On December 27th the committee reported and presented the following by-laws, which were adopted: BY-LAWS OF KIRKLAND COMMERCIAL CLUB.

Preamble.
The objects of the Kirkland Commercial club are to encourage and assist in the development of the east side of Lake Washington, to protect and advance the commercial, mercantile and other public interests of this locality; to provide and furnish a place of meeting of the association to carry out the objects of this club. In furtherance of these objects the following are adopted as By-laws:

ARTICLE I.
Name.
The name of the association shall be the Kirkland Commercial Club.

ARTICLE II.
Membership.
Citizens may be elected members upon personal application or recommendation by a member in good standing and receiving a majority of all votes cast at a regular meeting of the club.

Any one not a resident of Kirkland or vicinity, who is interested in the development of this section, may become an honorary member in the manner indicated above.

ARTICLE III.
Trustees.
The business affairs of the club shall be managed by a board of seven trustees; they shall have charge of the property of the club and perform such other duties as the members shall prescribe.

ARTICLE IV.
Officers.
The officers of the club shall consist of a President, Vice President, Second Vice President, Treasurer, Secretary and the Board of Seven Trustees, all of whom shall be elected annually, by ballot. The office of Treasurer and Secretary may be held by the same person.

2nd. Vacancies caused by removal, death or resignation of officers may be filled by election for the unexpired portion of the year.

3rd. The officers shall hold their respective offices from the first meeting in January of each year until the next annual election and until their successors shall be elected.

ARTICLE V.
Election of Officers.
The annual election of officers shall take place at the rooms of the club at the first regular meeting in January of each year. No person shall be entitled to vote at such election until the payment of all dues and charges against him up to the 1st day of January next preceding the election.

ARTICLE VI.
Meetings.
The regular meetings of the club shall be held on the second and fourth Mondays of each month, special meetings may be called at any time by the President of the Board of Trustees, by giving 24 hours notice. The President shall also call a meeting whenever requested so to do in writing by ten members of the club.

2nd. A quorum of the club shall consist of seven members.

ARTICLE VII.
Committees.

The following committees shall be constituted annually, to serve during the year, the appointments being made by the President:

City Affairs, 7.
County Affairs, 7.
Finance, 5.
Lake Washington Canal, 5.
Manufactures, 7.
Membership, 5.
Printing and Advertising, 3.
Reception and Entertainment, 7.
Transportation, 7.

2nd. Special committees may be appointed at any time to pass upon matters not within the province of the regular committees.

3rd. A committee quorum shall consist of a majority of its members.

4th. All matters referred shall be assigned by the President to the proper committee.

ARTICLE VIII.

The President shall preside at all meetings of the club and shall conduct the business according to parliamentary practice as laid down in "Robert's Rules of Order." In the absence of the President the Vice President shall preside, and in his absence the Second Vice President.

ARTICLE IX.

Treasurer.
The Treasurer shall receive all money belonging to the club, keep a just and regular account of the same, pay them out on the order of the President, attested by the Secretary, and shall make a report at the first regular meeting in January of each year showing the receipts and disbursements for the preceding year.

ARTICLE X.

Secretary.
The Secretary shall keep the minutes of all meetings, the records, accounts and papers and shall attend to all correspondence. He shall receive all moneys due the club and pay them over to the Treasurer.

ARTICLE XI.

Order of Business.
The Order of Business at regular meetings shall be as follows:

1st. Reading of minutes of last meeting.
2nd. Reading of petitions and other communications, their consideration, reference or final disposition.
3rd. Application for membership.
4th. Reports of officers or committees.
5th. General business.
6th. Adjournment.

ARTICLE XII.

Dues.
There shall be dues from each member of the club, the sum of two dollars ($2.00) per year, which may be paid semi-annually, if desired.

ARTICLE XIII.

Amendments.
These By-Laws may be amended by a majority vote of all members present at any regular meeting, but such amendment shall be submitted in writing at the regular meeting preceding the one at which the vote is taken.

The following were elected charter members of the club:

J. F. Brallier, Wm. Stevens, H. E. Tompkins, John J. Elliott, R. H. Collins, D. D. Gregg, A. T. Churchill, L. H. Marsh, W. Thannum, W. C. Morford, B. F. Trueblood, N. S. Phillips, E. E. Gilbert, A. The following names were presented: The East Side Commercial Club and the Kirkland Commercial Club. It was decided to call it the Kirkland Commercial Club.

The following matters have been taken up and discussed by the club: "The Kirkland Water System," "New Docks on the East Side," "A Larger Pay Roll and How to Get it," "Better Roads," "Better Transportation," "The King County Ferry, Whether it Will be Sold, Discontinued, Rebuilt, or a New one Built, and if Operated, how it should be Operated," "An Electric Light Line from Snoqualmie Falls," "A Live Newspaper Printed on the East Side."

The club has 140 members, located at Bellevue, Northrup, Houghton, Kirkland, Juanita, Redmond, Happy Valley, Tolt and Novelty, and will meet at Kirkland the second Monday of each month at 7:30 p. m., and for the summer months at Redmond the fourth Monday evening in each month, at 7:30 p. m.

At a regular meeting on April 8th the following special committee were elected to take up and confer with the county commissioners in the matters pertaining to the King county ferry boat: The President, Secretary and Judge White.

On March 25th there were present at the club meeting, John P. Hartman, Judge Hanford and Mr. Lancaster, who gave a very instructive lecture on "Good Roads, Their Value in a Community, and How to Build Them." At every meeting of the club there have been applications for membership.

There was an enthusiastic meeting at Redmond, April 22nd, at which 50 members were present.

FERRY WILL BE BUILT

SPECIFICATIONS ARE NOW BEING PREPARED TO BE SUBMITTED TO COUNTY COMMISSIONERS.

Inside of nine months, provided no serious obstacle is met, there will be a fine new ferry plying between Kirkland and Seattle. The county commissioners have called for specifications, and Moran Bros. and a number of other shipbuilders are at present at work on them. The new boat will cost more than was at first estimated, probably in the vicinity of $50,000. It will be along the lines of the modern, up-to-date boats, the entire lower portion being given up to teams, and the passenger accommodations being on the upper deck. It will be able to make the run in 20 minutes, ten minutes better than the old boat. A steel frame with wooden planking will be used.

The county commissioners well realize the fact that the greatest expedition is required, as the rapid growth of the east side necessitates better transportation facilities for teams and automobiles.

The Anderson Steamboat Company is doing all in its power to meet the present conditions in a matter satisfactory to all. The scow, towed by one of the passenger boats, is making regular runs and accommodating the traffic fairly well. The distance is covered in the same time as the old ferry, and the boat is covered and has ample railings and protection from accident. While it is to be regretted that the east side is to be somewhat handicapped this summer, there is some compensation in the fact that the Urania, the new boat soon to be launched, will greatly improve the passenger service.

ROAD WILL BE IMPROVED.

County Will Improve Kirkland-Redmond Thoroughfare.

The county commissioners are going to have the Kirkland-Redmond road graveled and put in good shape at once. The city has been asked to improve the portion inside the corporate limits, and will do so as soon as a scow of gravel can be procured. This road has been badly cut up on the Kirkland side by the heavy logging that is being done, and the improvement is a much needed one.

ABOUT OURSELVES.

As this is the first issue of The Sun the management will perhaps be pardoned for devoting some space to itself. The plant consists of a Campbell cylinder press, which can turn out 12,000 papers the size of this in an hour; a brand-new equipment of type and all the accessories to be found in an up-to-date printing establishment. The plant is located in the brick block known as the Parish Building, where the editor can be found on Tuesday and Wednesday of each week. His schedule, until further notice, is as follows: Monday, at Redmond; Tuesday, at Kirkland; Wednesday night, at Seattle, where the type for this paper is set on a linotype machine; Wednesday, in his office, making up and printing the paper; Thursday, in Issaquah, where he publishes the King County Record; Friday, in North Bend, where he publishes the North Bend Citizen, and Saturday and Sunday, in Issaquah. All job work will be handled for the present in the Issaquah office, which is equipped to turn out all kinds of work, from a visiting card to books. Orders for job work should be sent direct to the King County Record, Issaquah, and copy for advertisements, contributions and subscriptions to the Kirkland-Redmond Sun, Kirkland, Wash. Ads and local copy should be in by Tuesday noon for the issue of the current week.

WILL HAVE NEW WHARF

OLD CITY DOCK BEING REPLACED BY COMMODIOUS STRUCTURE WITH WAITING ROOM.

The Anderson Steamboat Company is erecting a fine new dock in Kirkland near the old city structure, which was condemned some time ago by the city of Kirkland. This dock will be large enough to accommodate a large amount of freight and to allow a number of steamers to tie up to it at the same time. Upon it will be a waiting room containing a cigar and confectionery stand. The piling is being put in very substantially, and the new dock should accommodate the increasing traffic for some time to come.

REGARDING SAMPLE COPIES.

A large number of sample copies of this issue are being sent out. If you receive one don't hesitate to take it from the office, as your doing so does not make you liable for a year's subscription. A little later on you will be waited upon by a solicitor and given a chance either to subscribe or decline. Subscriptions will also be accepted at the Kirkland, Redmond and Bellevue post offices and at the Morford's store, near the ferry dock, Kirkland.

AN OPEN LETTER.

As the end of the school year approaches, and as the spring days grow warmer, there is a manifest tendency on the part of some students to drop out of school. Now, we know that balmy air, the fragrant blossoms, and the birds, newly arrived from the southland, are all inviting; but school is a business and should be conducted on business principles. Hence, a student who enters school should continue till the end of the term.

The purpose of the school is twofold; first, to enable the student to get information; second, to inculcate useful and helpful habits.

Now, it follows that the student who drops out of school because the work is difficult, will quit other things when they become irksome; or, in other words, he will be a "quitter;" and the one who is tardy in his attendance and work will be slow in paying his debts.

It takes more than childish fortitude to attend school for the entire term; therefore, it is necessary that the parents see to it that they attend.

The work of the school term is divided into parts proportionate to the number of months. If a student misses the last month's work, he is not prepared to take up the work of the next year, therefore must continue in the same grade.

In nearly every grade there are students much older and larger than others. By consulting the records, we find that in nearly every case, it is because of irregular attendance. Is it any wonder that many refuse to enter the higher schools, or even to complete the grammar school when they have been permitted to fall behind their classes through irregular attendance?

Since these things are true, and it is so important that each student should complete the full measure of the year's work, we respectfully urge our patrons to see that their children attend regularly and promptly.

Very respectfully,
V. W. TALBOTT,
Principal.

Happenings of a Week in This Busy Burg, as Seen by the Sun

S. Reed, principal of the Avondale School, was taken to the hospital in Seattle on Saturday, suffering from congestion of the lungs. He was accompanied by Messrs. Sykes and Brown. The last report from him is that he is somewhat better. His school, which would have been finished in two weeks, is closed for the rest of the year.

A number of Redmond Masons attended an initiation in Fall City Saturday evening. Among them were Judge White, Charles Huffman, H. A. Templeton and Connie Trimble.

The Fall City ball team met defeat for the second time at the hands of Woodville on Sunday, the score being 6 to 10. The home team has in it some good material and will improve with age. It should have the support of the town, as no team can make good without encouragement.

The basket social held at the school last Friday evening was a great success. The sum of $45 was netted from the sale of lunch baskets. In the spelling match Fred Rell came off victorious, spelling everything from "phthisic" to "phantasmagoria," and then some.

On Friday evening there was a head-on collision between a little man and a big man. When the smoke cleared away the little man was found to have the best of things, and was given the decision.

Dr. Kiefer has purchased a fine, new horse and buggy. C. W. Huffman has also invested in a buggy. These gentlemen are evidently getting ready for the macadam road soon to be built between Kirkland and Redmond.

C. Norman has been seen on the street exercising his fast mare the last few days. The mare can certainly "go some."

The dance at the hall Saturday night was very well attended and all report a splendid time. These club dances are becoming very popular affairs.

The hall of the Redmond Construction Company is being fixed up for a lodge room.

H. A. Templeton is fixing up the new house he bought recently and will soon move into it.

S. A. White and wife left for Michigan last week. Mr. White's father is very ill, and the trip was made sooner than expected for this reason.

William Brown is fixing up the interior of his saloon. He has nearly completed some extensive improvements on the grounds surrounding his residence.

C. Norman has painted and in other ways improved his residence recently.

John Peterson, of the Redmond Lumber Company, has installed a giant donkey engine on the works. This engine could move the whole of King County if it could be hitched on properly.

H. F. Morse announces a ball free to the public at M. W. A. Hall May 4 in honor of his wedding, which is to occur May 2. Supper will be served at Hotel Fall City. Music by the Crown Orchestra, of Issaquah.

Thomas Provan, of Avondale, is quite ill. Under Dr. Kiefer's care he is recovering nicely.

The Redmond second team played Bothell on Friday afternoon. Score, 0 to 6 in favor of the other fellers.

Ed Boddy, the marshal, is building a new house.

Some miscreant set fire to the barn of William Newberg at Cottage Lake on Saturday. The incendiary was seen to run from the building, wearing a mask, shortly before the flames were discovered. Mrs. Newberg, who was ill, hurt herself quite severely in trying to save the house from the flames. A short time ago one of Mr. Newberg's hogs was poisoned. He has not yet discovered the perpetrator of these outrages.

Bids will be received on the 4th of May for cleaning and fixing up the school grounds.

William Whitman, bookkeeper for the Campbell Lumber Company, went to Seattle Monday to meet his parents, who came out from Chicago. They will spend the summer here.

The baby of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hayes of Avondale, is seriously ill.

The Good Templars lodge is slowly growing in numbers. There are now 31 members.

Mrs. Mitchell, of Avondale, gave a party for her daughter Lottie on Saturday evening. Miss Mitchell has gone to Seattle, where she has secured a position.

Miss Grace Kelley has finished her school at Novelty and returned to her home.

Mrs. J. Rogers of New York, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Aug. Bloom.

J. W. Clise has purchased a fine new Franklin auto of the 1907 pattern.

Let everyone remember that Redmond now has church and Sunday school services every Sunday afternoon at 2:30. All are invited to attend.

Nearly fifty have enrolled in the new Sunday school. This is a splendid beginning. Fifty more should come and join, not merely to increase the numbers, but that the school may do all the more good.

Redmond people should avail themselves of the opportunity of attending the orchestra entertainment at Kirkland School Assembly room next Friday, May 3, at 8:15 p. m.

Miss Louise Goodnow, our school principal, spent Saturday and Sunday in Seattle.

Leslie Edgar, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bishop, died April 21, after a brief illness, aged five weeks and three days. The funeral services were held at the home, the old Allen place, west of Lake Sammamish, April 23, by Dr. Marsh, and the little boy was to rest in the Hill side cemetery west of town. Mr. and Mrs. Bishop are but new comers here and what with the loss of their little one and a little girl lying a the point of death with spinal meningitis at the time of the funeral their grief is certainly sore and hard to bear.

Later: The other child spoken of died shortly after the above was written.

HOUGHTON NOTES.

Houghton extends a welcome to the Sun and assures it a most hearty support.

Houghton is on the move and soon will boast another home. Mrs. Waim Fish is building a modern Lakeside cottage on Roy street. Mr. Obe Patty is pushing the work with vigor.

Mr. Walter Curtis is fencing the loafers, urchins and cattle out of his door yard. Do you blame him?

Mr. Kirtley is making garden today. He says, "It is a little late, but it will grow all the better and be all the sweeter." He is right.

Wednesday is Houghton's shopping day. All the houses are deserted, the children scud to school, the men to labor and the women take the first boat for Seattle. It is a lonesome day for the chickens and the grocery man. All peddlers and agents take notice!

Mrs. Woodward and Mrs. McKiefer spent Tuesday in Seattle.

Houghton expects to have two teachers next year. Why not? She has ample funds. The children need the best they can get.

SEND IT AWAY.

The Sun is published primarily to advertise the resources and possibilities of the east side of Lake Washington. But it will do the community no good unless it reaches the prospective locator or investor. Therefore, when you have read your paper wrap it up and send it to some one who may be interested and perhaps influenced by it to come and look over this section of the country. Better yet, subscribe for one, or a half a dozen, of your friends and relatives. It will serve as a weekly letter to them and at the same time sow the seed that may bear some fruit in the future. We want more people on the east side of Lake Washington, and the Sun proposes to help get them. Do your part, and we'll do ours.

FACTS ABOUT PNEUMONIA.

By Dr. Ella K. Dearborn.

Pneumonia is classed among the infectious diseases, but more likely the diplococcus-pneumonia is the result of disease, instead of the cause of it. Childhood and old age, those of lowered vitality, and those much exposed to inclement weather and alcoholic devotees are especially liable to pneumonia, and, having had it once, are predisposed to the second attack.

The death rate in the United States for pneumonia averages about 25 per cent and stands next to consumption (tuberculosis) in frequency as cause of death. It usually begins with a hard chill, and is followed by a high fever, with pain in the lungs and a short, catchy respiration and a peculiar flushing of the face on the same side of the afflicted lung, for, fortunately, it more often involves but one lung, and should it be the left side, heart involvement seriously complicates the case.

When taken with a chill it is always best to call in your physician, for a chill usually means trouble ahead, and it is unwise to waste time in home experiments. Put the patient in bed, in a well ventilated room, preferably an upstairs room with southern exposure, and keep an even temperature of 65 degrees. Oil the chest, both back and front, and cover with a layer of lamb's wool. Avoid cold compress and ice packs. The food should be light and easily digested, as broths, soups, milk, whey, or well beaten eggs, given raw, and not much of anything at a time, save cold water ad libitum.

Visitors should not be admitted to the sick room; it is bad enough to be sick, without being critically inspected by curious friends, who usually tell doleful stories or maintain a hopeless silence and wear woe-begone countenances that would strike terror to a burglar. If the patient is able to care whether you do or do not call, a card expressing sympathy and good wishes, or a flower, will bear your message, and will not injure the patient.

FARMERS' SHARE IN PROSPERITY.

By Maj. Edwin C. Hardy.

To-day the American farmer occupies a position of pre-eminence in the realm of industry and commerce. He is the largest contributor to the wealth of the nation. He does more than any other agency for the general welfare. He is the chief factor in the country's prosperity, of which he is enjoying, and most deservedly, a liberal share.

What the agricultural producers of the United States have done is graphically set forth in the annual report of the Secretary of Agriculture. What the possibilities of the future are may be conjectured from what has been achieved. The product of American farms this year was more than $2,000,000,000 greater than that of seven years ago. What will be the figure seven years hence? It is not unreasonable to assume that they will be doubled, perhaps trebled, before the half-century is reached.

Secretary Wilson shows that the corn crop may be increased by one-half within twenty-five years from old soil, and that the cotton crop may be trebled without a miracle. In all other respects agricultural production, under improved conditions of cultivation, will increase. Those who are apprehensive that population may outrun the means of subsistence will find no support for their theory in the facts presented in the agricultural report.

As to the farmer, Secretary Wilson draws a cheering picture of his present condition. He has become a large participant in the better conditions of life which he has so materially helped to bring about. Very generally he has attained financial independence. In the Middle West a million agriculturists are debt free and are lending to the banks. More capital is being invested in improving farms. The farmer "is becoming a traveler, and he has his telephone and his daily mail and newspaper. A new dignity has come to agriculture along with its economic strength."

To-day the intelligent and progressive farmer keeps in touch with the world. He is posted on the markets. He is informed respecting conditions that affect his interests. He gives thoughtful attention to whatever will improve his own affairs.

PATIENT WOMAN IS A MENACE TO THE HOME.

By Della Austrian.

The patient woman may be a reformer, but, like other mortals, she must expect to sacrifice herself to the cause. She may be good and virtuous, and still her domineering husband will do as he likes. It is the man who is married to a woman who does not waste any sympathy on him that usually proves himself to be a model husband.

This does not mean that the sensible woman spends her married days quarreling and making up. She knows that she needs tact and judgment to succeed as a wife as in every calling. She conserves her energy, and when she expends it she uses it to good advantage. When she wants to kick she does not give the ball a timid, modest thrust, but, like the successful football player, she waits until she can send it into the coveted goal.

him. There was no sound of life anywhere.

And just then happened the strangest thing that Danny had ever known. Without a warning of any sort, the earth suddenly heaved and rocked beneath him, flinging him violently over. There was a crashing sound, as of rocks falling and breaking close by, and the same instant the burning pine logs from the camp fire were scattered all around.

Danny was too terrified to scream. The thought crossed his mind that this was perhaps the end of the world, and he felt sick and faint, as well as frightened, but he managed somehow to scramble to his feet, and tried to think what had happened. Then, recalling the strange stories he had heard over the evening camp fires, it flashed across him that this must be one of the mighty "tremblers" old Morgan, the foreman, had often told him of. Danny had thought he would not know what it was.

"Don't you fear but what you'll reckonize a trembler when you feel it, boy," Morgan had said to him grimly. "Ain't nothin' else in all creation kin do the stunts an earthquake kin, once it gits agoin'. Earth just opens her mouth good an' wide, an' swallows up ever'thin' in sight."

From somewhere far to the east-

HE HELD HIS TORCH.

ward there shrilled through the fog the distant whistle of a locomotive. Danny knew it must be the westbound overland flyer, which passed the camp early every morning. He groped his way toward the tracks. Suddenly he stumbled over a ridge of rocks. Creeping cautiously along on hands and knees, he soon discovered that the track was all torn up. In places the wooden ties stood on end in a jumbled heap, and the rails, wrenched from their fastenings, were twisted and broken.

With a great terror clutching at his heart Danny sprang up hastily and rushed back to the camp, stumbling as he went. He thought of nothing but the train, with its precious load of humanity, speeding on to destruction. He must save the train or die trying.

Snatching a blazing brand from the fire he ran with it up the track. The splintered ties tore his bare feet, and several times he stumbled over the wreckage, but he stopped for nothing.

The hope began to die away in his heart. And then, suddenly, the engineer leaned out of his cab and caught sight, through the gray blanket of fog, of Danny's waving torch. Throwing on the brakes and shutting off the steam, he brought his great throbbing engine to a standstill the train's length beyond the boy.

When some of the passengers and trainmen went back to look for Danny, they found him sitting at the side of the track, looking very white. The train had swept him off his feet.

"Mighty brave little chap!" said some one near the door. "There are three miles of track sunk clean out of sight just ahead of us. If it hadn't been for him—"

But just then another face, that Danny somehow seemed to know, smiled tenderly down on him; and the next thing he knew a big man was on his knees beside him, and all at once everybody's eyes seemed to be filled with tears.

"My boy! my boy!" the big man sobbed, brokenly. "To find you here, like this, after going back to the old place to look for you!"

And then Danny knew just what the wonderful thing was that had happened. He had found his father at last!—Pennsylvania Grit.

Did Johnny Wiat

A little boy whose interest in religion had waned somewhat was met on the street one day by his pastor.

"Johnny, why haven't I seen you at church, lately?" asked the minister.

"I-I don't like to go now. You swear too much in the pulpit."

"Why, Johnny," gasped the surprised churchman, "you are mistaken. I never swear."

"Oh, yes, you do," persisted the lad.

"Well, my young friend, suppose we put it to the test. Now, you come to church next Sunday, and if you hear me swear, I'll give you an apple pie; and if you don't hear me, you are to give me one and come to church regularly afterward."

To this Johnny agreed.

When the next Lord's day came, Johnny was on hand, way down in front. The sermon was about half through, and the good clergyman had committed no offense until, unsuspectingly, he uttered the words, "And it is by God we live, and by God we die"—whereupon, Johnny, jumping to his feet, cried out, "There's where you lose your apple pie!"

"THE MARRYING SQUIRE."

Justice Geo. E. Law, of Brazil, Ind., Has Married 1,400 Couples.

Justice Geo. E. Law, of Brazil, Ind., has fairly earned the title "The Marrying Squire," by which he is known far and wide, having already married some 1,400 couples. Ten years ago he was deputy county treasurer.

"At that time," said Justice Law, "I was suffering from an annoying kidney trouble. My back ached, my rest was broken at night, and the passages of the kidney secretions were too frequent and contained sediment. Three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me in 1897, and for the past nine years I have been free from kidney complaint and backache."

THE LAUGH OF A CHILD.

There's the laugh of the dawn in the waking east,
And the laugh of the noonday sky;
The laugh of the breeze, the delirious laugh
Of the flame when the night-winds sigh.

There's the laugh of the stars, and the meadow brook,
Of the sea, and the festal wine,
The frivolous laugh, and the wonderful laugh
Of the heart at affection's shrine.

There's the laugh of the rose at the setting moon,
When the night has flown away,
But the happiest laugh, the ineffable laugh,
Is the laugh of the child at play.

Saving the Flyer

CROUCHING beside the crackling camp fire Danny shivered miserably as the damp fog penetrated his thin clothing and chilled him to the bone. He drew his knees up stiffly, and huddled himself in his ragged blanket.

He was alone in the camp, for the men had gone to do some work up the road.

He had been dreaming of home just before he awoke—the dear old home back in Missouri, where he and his mother had kept house together after father had gone to seek a fortune for them all farther West. But that was a long time ago, when Danny was quite a little chap, and since then many sad things had happened. First, father's letters had ceased to come, and then after a while the home had been given up, and Danny and mother had entered upon dark and troubled days. And now there was no mother any more, and Danny, left alone in the world, was manfully trying to make his way out to San Francisco, where he vaguely hoped he might find his lost father.

Danny had fallen in with a repair gang of railroad men, and agreed to do odd jobs about the camp for a little money he would need when he reached San Francisco.

But though Danny was a brave little lad, there was a big lump in his throat as he tried to roll himself more snugly in his blanket. And somehow the strange, solemn stillness frightened

LABOR MEN STIRRED

PRESIDENT'S LETTER TO JAXON BRINGS SHARP REPLY.

Debs Quotes Former Speech and Challenges Chief Executive to Explain or Stand Branded From His Own Mouth With Calumny and Mendacity.

Washington, April 25.—President Roosevelt has made his reply to Honore Jaxon, chairman of the Cook county conference, in relation to his comparison of E. H. Harriman, Moyer, Haywood and Debs, and classing them all together as undesirable citizens.

Labor organizations in various parts of the United States have sent protests to the president for this statement, which came out in the Harriman-Webster-Roosevelt controversy. In President Roosevelt's letter there is very little satisfaction given to organized labor. Extracts from the president's letter follow:

Not Influencing Trial

"In my letter to which you object, I referred to a certain prominent financier, Mr. Harriman, on the one hand, and to Messrs. Moyer, Haywood and Debs on the other, as being equally undesirable. It is as foolish to assert that this was designed to influence the trial of Moyer and Haywood as to assert that it was designed to influence suits which have been brought against Harriman.

"I neither expressed nor indicated any opinion as to whether Moyer and Haywood were guilty of the murder of Gov. Steunenberg. If they are guilty they certainly ought to be punished. But no possible outcome either of the trial or of the suits can affect my judgment as to the undesirability of the type of citizenship of those whom I mentioned.

"Messrs. Moyer, Haywood and Debs stand as representatives of those men who have done as much to discredit the labor movement as the worst speculative financiers or most unscrupulous employers of labor and debauchers of legislators have done to discredit honest capitalists and fair dealing business men.

"The men whom I denounced represent the men who have abandoned that legitimate movement for the uplifting of labor with which I have the most hearty sympathy; they have adopted practices which cut them off from those who lead this legitimate movement.

Belabors the Three

"In every way I shall support the law-abiding and upright representatives of labor; and in no way can I better support them than by drawing the sharpest line between them on the one hand, and on the other hand, those preachers of violence who are themselves the worst foes of the honest laboring man.

"They stand as representatives of the men who by their public utterances and manifestly by the utterances of the papers they control, or inspire, and by the words and deeds of those associated with or subordinated to them, habitually appear as guilty of incitement to, or apology for, bloodshed and violence. If this does not constitute undesirable citizenship, then there can never be any undesirable."

NATIONAL PROTEST

PROPOSED BY LABOR

Milwaukee April 25.—A movement, national in scope, to set aside a Moyer-Haywood-Pettibone day early in May, on which day every union in the country is to protest against the action of President Roosevelt in denouncing the Western miners before they have been tried, has been started in Milwaukee. The plan is to have labor leaders in every city in the country agree on a day on which demonstrations shall be arranged, and the president taken to task, not only for his utterances in his recent letter, but more especially for his communication to Honore Jaxon, of Chicago, in which he reiterates his criticism.

Girard, Kan., April 25.—Engene V. Debs, in a signed statement says:

"After many days President Roosevelt concluded to revise his publicly announced determination to treat the communications of organized labor with silent contempt. He changed his mind only when he saw representatives of the working class preparing to move on the White House. In the voluble and vague explanations just issued the president is guilty of a most extraordinary lapse of memory or deliberate falsehood.

"In defense of his unenviable position he now claims he never said anything concerning the guilt of Moyer and Haywood. I answer by quoting the exact words he used in a speech on the occasion of the laying of the cornerstone of the office building of the house of representatives on April 14, 1906, as follows:

Quotes President's Speech

"The wealthy man who exults because there is a failure in justice in his efforts to bring some trust magnate to account for his misdeeds, is as bad and no worse than the so-called labor leader who clamorously strives to excite foul class feeling on behalf of some other labor leader who is implicated in murder."

"Moyer and Haywood had been arrested, and I had made what was called a sensational appeal in their behalf but a short time before this speech was delivered. Roosevelt's words were clearly meant for Moyer, Haywood and myself. They could by no possibility apply to anyone else."

Apology as Alternative

"The president made no attempt to shift his position at that time. He had denounced these labor leaders as murderers and proposed to stand by it. That was his attitude a year ago.

ATTITUDE OF POWERS

ON DISARMAMENTS

Rome, April 29.—The discussion concerning the Italian proposition on the limitation of armaments at The Hague has served in a measure to elucidate the attitudes of the various powers on this subject. Great Britain, which is the only country to send a minister of foreign affairs to the conference, is in favor of the discussion and it is supported by Spain.

Russia, while insisting on the discussion of her own program of April 21, 1906, agrees with Germany and Austria on the question of armament to the point of referring to it in the official documents as an entente, but Russia is favorable to any step that is likely to result in a reasonable solution.

Germany and Austria do not favor the limitation of armament; they will, however, permit the presentation of the proposal, although they are not willing to participate in the discussion.

France does not believe in the practical possibility of the plan, although the first peace conference voted an order presented by M. Bourgeois, one of the French delegates, providing that the lightening of the burdens incurred through the maintenance of armaments be considered. France, there is reason to believe, is of the opinion that there are internal as well as external reasons against the limitation. She has not yet decided whether to participate in the discussion.

The situation in Italy is delicate and difficult. The general opinion is in favor of limitation, but Germany has been called thereupon to fill the duties of an attorney. There is no desire to have a repetition of the Algerias incident, when Germany accused Italy of having deserted her. Consequently Italy is interested in bringing about an understanding on this subject prior to the conference.

CANADIAN MINERS

TO RETURN TO WORK

Fernie, B. C., April 27.—After a closed meeting lasting five hours, during which mine officials and district board officers talked earnestly to the men and exhorted them to return to work, the men finally decided that they would do so on the personal assurance of McKenzie King, deputy master of labor, that the work commission will be expedited as much as possible.

The work is to be carried on under the same terms and conditions of employment in existence when the strike began until an investigation has been made by the board of conciliation appointed under the industrial deputies investigation act as to the merits of the dispute.

Rhode Island Short One Senator

Providence, R. I., April 25.—Until January next Rhode Island will have but one United States senator, as a result of the failure of the Republicans in the legislature to agree on a candidate. The joint assembly adjourned last night at the end of the eighty-first ballot, which showed that the deadlock was as complete as before. The contest was the most protracted and stubbornly fought in the political history of the state.

More Russians Will Emigrate

St. Petersburg, April 25.—Owing to the political and economical crisis 300,000 Russian subjects will emigrate to America this year, according to the directors of the emigration office. Hitherto the yearly exodus has been about 250,000, of whom two-thirds were Jews. The percentage of orthodox Russians who emigrate is increasing. The director says most of the emigrants will go west to Illinois, Minnesota, Nebraska and the Dakotas.

CANAL IN 8 YEARS

SECRETARY TAFT FIXES THIS LIMIT OF TIME.

Disappointed if It Should Take Longer, But Not Surprised if Work is Accomplished Sooner. Says Conditions on Isthmus are Satisfactory.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 30.—"If the Panama canal is not completed within eight years I shall be greatly disappointed. If it is completed in less time than that I shall not be greatly surprised."

This statement, made last night by W. H. Taft, secretary of war, before the Business Men's Club of this city, was loudly applauded by the 1,500 members of the club gathered in the banquet hall.

Secretary Taft announced at the beginning that he would speak on the "Panama Canal," and particularly on the improvements and rapid progress in the work.

"It is only by a comparison of the conditions existing at the time of my two visits," said the secretary, "that I am able to give an adequate idea of the work that has been accomplished and of the present condition of the work. I would like in passing to pay a tribute of justice to the French people. What they did down there has never been properly appreciated by Americans. The great danger of work of this character under the auspices of the American people is that the work of construction will be undertaken before the work of preparation is completed. I do not think that the preparatory work of the last two years has been productive of anything but the most beneficial results.

"My visit this year was to settle the location of the locks, the completion of which will, in my opinion, mark the completion of the canal. It is possible, however, that the finish of the work in the Culebra cut will be the end of our labors. In this cut there are yet to be excavated 52,000,000 cubic yards of earth, exclusive of the digging to be done on the approaches to the cut proper. In the nine miles of the cut there are now fifty-eight steam shovels at work, and they will take out on the average 1,000,000 cubic yards per month. This rate may be increased until we have ninety shovels at work, and then it will gradually decline until it will probably be somewhat below 700,000 cubic yards per month. The space in the cut narrows as it goes down.

Why Contract Was Not Let.

"We advertised for bids on the canal work and then declined them for the reason that we found it would be necessary for the contractors to have the help of capitalists and we should be compelled to allow the contractors 7 per cent interest on the money they would be compelled to borrow from the capitalists. As we could borrow money at 2 per cent, this 7 per cent proposition did not appeal greatly to us.

"To us in responsibility it is a great comfort to be able to introduce the army engineers upon the work. We have three of them there, and if one falls out the continuity of the work will be undisturbed. It is only fair to say of the army engineers that there will be no graft that they cannot suppress, and there will be no bad work that they cannot supervise.

"The record of the army is a guarantee that the work will be capably and honestly performed."

NICARAGUA AND SALVADOR

SIGN TREATY OF PEACE

San Salvador, April 27.—A treaty of peace between Salvador and Nicaragua has been signed by ministers representing each country at Anapala. The terms of the peace treaty are honorable to both countries. The terms proposed by Salvador were accepted and the demands made by President Zelaya, of Nicaragua for reparation for Salvador's part in the recent war between Nicaragua and Honduras that there be a free interchange of commodities between Nicaragua and Salvador were rejected.

Exhibit Servantless House

Vienna, April 25.—On May 18 the eighth architectural exposition opens at Vienna. Of special interest will be a model of the co-operative servantless apartment house built by a Danish professor, Otto Fick, with the assistance of the Danish government and the City of Copenhagen. Houses of this kind are now in actual operation in Berlin, Stockholm, London and Gothenberg, and have everywhere proved successful. The professor is in America, where it is his intention to start a world syndicate of millionaires to undertake the building of his houses in all parts of the civilized world.

FARMERS INSTITUTES

State College Has Completed Arrangements for Lecturers.

Pullman, Wash., April 27.—Prof. E. E. Elliott, head of the state college department of agriculture and superintendent of farmers' institutes, has just completed his outline of a plan under which a series of farmers' institutes will be carried on in Western Washington, beginning May 20. The work will be carried on by the state college faculty and such outside assistance as they may deem advisable to secure.

The subject matter taken up at the various institutes will vary with conditions of the various localities. Small fruit growing and diversified farming will be considered on the west side, where the heaviest circuits are. In the wheat producing and stock raising sections the lectures will be given to instruct in these industries. The principal lecturers will be Prof. E. E. Elliott, of the state college department of agriculture; Prof. I. P. Whitney, experiment station dairyman; Prof. R. K. Beattie, botanist, and Prof. R. W. Thatcher, station chemist. Wherever possible local workers will be asked to deliver lectures or read papers on topics of general interest in their localities.

TAFT WOULD ACCEPT IF HE IS NOMINATED

Columbus, Ohio, April 30.—That W. H. Taft, secretary of war, is in the race for the Republican nomination for president to stay is, in effect, the announcement made by A. I. Vorys, state commissioner of insurance, who is managing the Taft canvass in Ohio. Mr. Vorys has just had a conference with Secretary Taft at Cincinnati. When he returned to Columbus he gave out the following statement:

"I have talked with Secretary Taft and submitted to him convincing evidence that the Republicans of Ohio favor him as the Republican candidate for president. He was gratified at the information. He said that some months ago he had announced that, while his ambition was not political, he would accept the nomination if it came to him, and added that, in view of the fact that his name had been used and support for him invoked by his friends, good faith required that he should not alter his position until the question of nomination is settled."

HARRIMAN OFFERS RELIEF

Willing to Aid Washington Lumbermen, But Hill Refuses.

Tacoma, April 30.—At a meeting of the Pacific Coast Lumber Manufacturers' Association here a letter was read from Interstate Commerce Commissioner Lane in substance as follows:

Harriman wants to help the lumber manufacturers of Washington to market their product. He is willing to join with the Northern Pacific in the establishment of a joint rate through the Portland gateway, but the Northern Pacific refuses to co-operate with Harriman. The Hill interests refused even to discuss the matter.

Commissioner Lane says the complaint of the Manufacturers' association will be called for hearing during May. At the meeting here the state railroad commission agreed to accept the proposition of the Northern Pacific to keep the car records open in Spokane, Seattle and Tacoma.

Officials of the Northern Pacific sent written statements denying that any discrimination was being shown in the distribution of cars.

The scarcity of men for logging and mill work is attributed to high wages paid by railroad contractors.

CHILEAN CITY BURIED BY VOLCANIC ERUPTION

Santiago de Chile, April 27.—Another volcano is in eruption in the Valdivia district, which threatens to complete the havoc begun by the volcano Villarica. It is pouring forth vast clouds of ashes, which are fast burying all the towns in the district. Valdivia is completely overwhelmed. All the residents have fled. The city is buried under many feet of ashes, lava and dust. Lava and mud streams are now completing the work of destruction.

Thousands have been driven from their homes in the devastated district, and are now living in the open fields, subsisting on roots and wild fruits.

Quinaults to Get Pay

Washington, April 27.—A delegation of Quinault Indians from the state of Washington, ised Indian Commissioner Leupp during the week and made protest against the inclusion of a portion of their reservation in the Quinault forest reserve. They were assured that if their land was appropriated they would be paid for it.

FORESTS AND THE PUBLIC.

Great Timber Areas Should Be Saved From Destruction.

At very small expense a few years ago the national and state governments could have held or acquired enough of the remaining timber belts of the country not only to protect river sources and mitigate floods but also to protect the public in its lumber supply and prevent the formation of a monopoly control of so needful an article of daily use, says the Review of Reviews. The Roosevelt administration has exerted itself strenuously to create forest reserves and stop the further encroachments of the lumber trust upon the national domain. It has constantly demanded a reform of the land laws, in order to better protect the public interest.

Its chief enemy in all this attempt to save the domain of the people from the land thieves and timber thieves has been congress itself. It is to be hoped that the investigation now involved by the Senate will be thorough and that it will shield no public men who have aided and abetted the process of turning the forest lands of the country over to the lumber kings. Whatever may be the objection to the public ownership and operation of practical business enterprises like railroads, there can be no sound argument against the retention by the public of the great forest areas of the upland and mountain regions of the country.

The government itself now possesses far more knowledge of practical forestry than do the lumber people and by a judicious system of leasing it could supply the lumbermen with merchantable timber without destroying the forests. Great mischief has been done, but the situation is not altogether hopeless and the proposed investigation will doubtless be of great value. Even where great areas have been devastated by the lumber trust and the woodpulp trust, the nation or the respective states can acquire them and make new forests out of them on scientific principles.

FOR TUBERCULOSIS VICTIMS.

New Sleeping Cabinet Which Insures Plenty of Fresh Air.

A great boon to those who are fighting against the ravages of tuberculosis is the invention of a sleeping cabinet, which insures plenty of fresh air. At the same time it protects the body of the sleeper from drafts and exposure.

The device consists of two frames. The outer frame is extensible laterally, and rests on the window ledge.

SLEEPING CABINET.

The opened window sash rests on top of this frame. Weather strips exclude the air from the room. The other frame rests on the bed. The frames are held in position by adjustable rods. A hood, similar to those on cameras, connects the two frames.

The frames are covered with curtains. The one at the window is on a spring roller, so as to regulate the admission of air. The curtain on the rear frame has a semi-circular opening at the bottom, braced by slender rods. A flap of flexible material snugly closes the neck of the sleeper. A small celluloid window is also placed in this curtain.

An adjustable pillow rest is in the cabinet. It is a board hinged to the bottom of the rear frame and held at the outer edge by hangers from the top of the rear frame. The hangers are slotted and adjustable by means of threaded studs and thumb screws.

For Him Alone.

The old negro had put on a clean collar and his best coat, and was walking majestically up and down the street.

"Aren't you working to-day, uncle?" asked one of his acquaintances.

"No, sah; I 'se celebratin' my golden weddin', sah."

"You were married fifty years ago to-day?"

"Yes, sah."

"Well, why isn't your wife helping you to celebrate it?"

"My present wife, sah," replied the old man, with dignity, "ain't got nothin' to do with it. She's de seventh."—People's Magazine.

Ready to Settle.

Daughter (tentatively)—Father, William is coming to-day to see you about me, and please don't forget that it will cost his feelings a good deal to approach you on the subject.

Father (grimly)—Oh, let him come along with the cost of his feelings. I'll foot the bill.—Baltimore American.

PAPERS BY THE PEOPLE

FACTS ABOUT PNEUMONIA.

By Dr. Ella K. Dearborn.

Pneumonia is classed among the infectious diseases, but more likely the diplococcus-pneumonia is the result of disease, instead of the cause of it. Childhood and old age, those of lowered vitality, and those much exposed to inclement weather and alcoholic devotees are especially liable to pneumonia, and, having had it once, are predisposed to the second attack.

The death rate in the United States for pneumonia averages about 25 per cent and stands next to consumption (tuberculosis) in frequency as cause of death. It usually begins with a hard chill, and is followed by a high fever, with pain in the lungs and a short, cately respiration and a peculiar flushing of the face on the same side of the afflicted lung, for, fortunately, it more often involves but one lung, and should it be the left side, heart involvement seriously complicates the case.

When taken with a chill it is always best to call in your physician, for a chill usually means trouble ahead, and it is unwise to waste time in home experiments. Put the patient in bed, in a well ventilated room, preferably an upstairs room with southern exposure, and keep an even temperature of 65 degrees. Oil the chest, both back and front, and cover with a layer of lamb's wool. Avoid cold compress and ice packs. The food should be light and easily digested, as broths, soups, milk, whey, or well beaten eggs, given raw, and not much of anything at a time, save cold water ad libitum.

Visitors should not be admitted to the sick room; it is bad enough to be sick, without being critically inspected by curious friends, who usually tell doleful stories or maintain a hopeless silence and wear woe-begone countenances that would strike terror to a burglar. If the patient is able to care whether you do or do not call, a card expressing sympathy and good wishes, or a flower, will bear your message, and will not injure the patient.

FARMERS' SHARE IN PROSPERITY.

By Maj. Edwin C. Hardy.

To-day the American farmer occupies a position of pre-eminence in the realm of industry and commerce. He is the largest contributor to the wealth of the nation. He does more than any other agency for the general welfare. He is the chief factor in the country's prosperity, of which he is enjoying, and most deservedly, a liberal share.

What the agricultural producers of the United States have done is graphically set forth in the annual report of the Secretary of Agriculture. What the possibilities of the future are may be conjectured from what has been achieved. The product of American farms this year was more than $2,000,000,000 greater than that of seven years ago. What will be the figure seven years hence? It is not unreasonable to assume that they will be doubled, perhaps trebled, before the half-century is reached.

Secretary Wilson shows that the corn crop may be increased by one-half within twenty-five years from old soil, and that the cotton crop may be trebled without a miracle. In all other respects agricultural production, under improved conditions of cultivation, will increase. Those who are apprehensive that population may outrun the means of subsistence will find no support for their theory in the facts presented in the agricultural report.

As to the farmer, Secretary Wilson draws a cheering picture of his present condition. He has become a large participant in the better conditions of life which he has so materially helped to bring about. Very generally he has attained financial independence. In the Middle West a million agriculturists are debt free and are lending to the banks. More capital is being invested in improving farms. The farmer "is becoming a traveler, and he has his telephone and his daily mail and newspaper. A new dignity has come to agriculture along with its economic strength."

To-day the intelligent and progressive farmer keeps in touch with the world. He is posted on the markets. He is informed respecting conditions that affect his interests. He gives thoughtful attention to whatever will improve his own affairs.

PATIENT WOMAN IS A MENACE TO THE HOME.

By Della Austrian.

The patient woman may be a reformer, but, like other mortals, she must expect to sacrifice herself to the cause. She may be good and virtuous, and still her domineering husband will do as he likes. It is the man who is married to a woman who does not waste any sympathy on him that usually proves himself to be a model husband.

This does not mean that the sensible woman spends her married days quarrelling and making up. She knows that she needs tact and judgment to succeed as a wife as in every calling. She conserves her energy, and when she expends it she uses it to good advantage. When she wants to kick she gives the ball a timid, modest thrust, but, like the successful football player, she waits until she can send it into the coveted goal.

him. There was no sound of life anywhere.

And just then happened the strangest thing that Danny had ever known. Without a warning of any sort, the earth suddenly heaved and rocked beneath him, flinging him violently over. There was a crashing sound, as of rocks falling and breaking close by, and the same instant the burning pine logs from the camp fire were scattered all around.

Danny was too terrified to scream. The thought crossed his mind that this was perhaps the end of the world, and he felt sick and faint, as well as frightened, but he managed somehow to scramble to his feet, and tried to think what had happened. Then, recalling the strange stories he had heard over the evening camp fires, it flashed across him that this must be one of the mighty "tremblers" old Morgan, the foreman, had often told him of. Danny had thought he would not know what it was.

"Don't you fear, but what you'll reckonize a trembler when you feel it, boy," Morgan had said to him grimly. "An' nothin' else in all creation kin do the stunts an' earthquake kin, once it gets agoin'. Earth just opens her mouth good an' wide, an' swallows up ever'thin' in sight."

From somewhere far to the east-

HE HELD HIS TORCH.

ward there shrilled through the fog the distant whistle of a locomotive. Danny knew it must be the westbound overland flyer, which passed the camp early every morning. He groped his way toward the tracks. Suddenly he stumbled over a ridge of rocks. Creeping cautiously along on hands and knees, he soon discovered that the track was all torn up. In places the wooden ties stood on end in a jumbled heap, and the rails, wrenched from their fastenings, were twisted and broken.

With a great terror clutching at his heart Danny sprang up hastily and rushed back to the camp, stumbling as he went. He thought of nothing but the train, with its precious load of humanity, speeding on to destruction. He must save the train or die trying.

Snatching a blazing brand from the fire he ran with it up the track. The splintered ties tore his bare feet, and several times he stumbled over the wreckage, but he stopped for nothing.

The hope began to die away in his heart. And then, suddenly, the engineer leaped out of his cab and caught sight, through the gray blanket of fog, of Danny's waving torch. Throwing on the brakes and shutting off the steam, he brought his great throbbing engine to a standstill the train's length beyond the boy.

When some of the passengers and trainmen went back to look for Danny, they found him sitting at the side of the track, looking very white. The train had swept him off his feet.

"Mighty brave little chap!" said some one near the door. "There are three miles of track sunk clean out of sight just ahead of us. If it hadn't been for him—"

But just then another face, that Danny somehow seemed to know, smiled tenderly down on him; and the next thing he knew a big man was on his knees beside him, and all at once everybody's eyes seemed to be filled with tears.

"My boy! my boy!" the big man sobbed, brokenly. "To find you here, like this, after going back to the old place to look for you!"

And then Danny knew just what the wonderful thing was that had happened. He had found his father at last!—Pennsylvania Grit.

Did Johnny Wint

A little boy whose interest in religion had waned somewhat was met on the street one day by his pastor.

"Johnny, why haven't I seen you at church, lately?" asked the minister.

"I-I don't like to go now. You swear too much in the pulpit."

"Why, Johnny," gasped the surprised churchman, "you are mistaken. I never swear."

"Oh, yes, you do," persisted the lad.

"Well, my young friend, suppose we put it to the test. Now, you come to church next Sunday, and if you hear me swear, I'll give you an apple pie; and if you don't hear me, you are to give me one and come to church regularly afterward."

To this Johnny agreed.

When the next Lord's day came, Johnny was on hand, way down in front. The sermon was about half through, and the good clergyman had committed no offense until, unsuspectingly, he uttered the words, "And it is by God we live, and by God we die"—whereupon, Johnny, jumping to his feet, cried out, "There's where you lose your apple pie!"

"THE MARRYING SQUIRE."

Justice Geo. E. Law, of Brazil, Ind., Has Married 1,400 Couples.

Justice Geo. E. Law, of Brazil, Ind., has fairly earned the title "The Marrying Squire," by which he is known far and wide, having already married some 1,400 couples. Ten years ago he was deputy county treasurer.

"At that time," said Justice Law, "I was suffering from an annoying kidney trouble. My back ached, my rest was broken at night, and the passages of the kidney secretions were too frequent and contained sediment. Three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills cured me in 1897, and for the past nine years I have been free from kidney complaint and backache."

THE LAUGH OF A CHILD.

There's the laugh of the dawn in the waking east,
And the laugh of the noonday sky;
The laugh of the breeze, the delirious laugh
Of the flame when the night-winds sigh.
There's the laugh of the stars, and the meadow brook,
Of the sea, and the festal wine,
The frivolous laugh, and the wonderful laugh
Of the heart at affection's shrine.
There's the laugh of the rose at the setting moon,

CROUCHING beside the crackling camp fire Danny shivered miserably as the damp fog penetrated his thin clothing and chilled him to the bone. He drew his knees up stiffly, and huddled himself in his ragged blanket.

He was alone in the camp, for the men had gone to do some work up the road.

He had been dreaming of home just before he awoke—the dear old home back in Missouri, where he and his mother had kept house together after father had gone to seek a fortune for them all farther West. But that was a long time ago, when Danny was quite a little chap, and since then many sad things had happened. First, father's letters had ceased to come, and then after a while the home had been given up, and Danny and mother had entered upon dark and troubled days. And now there was no mother any more, and Danny, left alone in the world, was manfully trying to make his way out to San Francisco, where he vaguely hoped he might find his lost father. Danny had fallen in with a repair gang of railroad men, and agreed to do odd jobs about the camp for a little money he would need when he reached San Francisco.

But though Danny was a brave little lad, there was a big lump in his throat as he tried to roll himself more snugly in his blanket. And somehow the strange, solemn stillness frightened

THE Popular Pulpit

BRAND MARKS.

By Henry F. Cope.

I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus.—Gal. vi., 17.

In the moral world one does not have to wear a button to show where he belongs. He is branded so plainly that there seldom is any mistake. The marks of character are more reliable than any other means of classification. The wolves may go into the church, but that does not make their hair curly. And there are sheep outside whose characters speak louder than any other confession of faith possibly could do.

You may get all kinds of indorsements from others, but your real letter of credit on the bank of character you write for yourself. Character sets its indelible record on the features, the form, the very fashion of the life. There are no secret sins, nor are there secret virtues. The things done in the closet cry aloud from the housetop; they proclaim themselves in the physical appearance, and still more in the unconscious moral atmosphere and emanation of the life.

A bad man may have a clear eye and a firm chin; but the grand marks of character will be seen in the mouth or the hand. Above all, they will be felt by every sensitive soul that approaches him. The separation between the sheep and the goats does not have to wait for some final judgment day; the judgment is now and the marks of differentiation are so plain that all may see them.

The scars of sin never wash out, nor does the passage of time wholly eradicate them. Despite all the good of each life, David still bears the marks of his fall, Peter of his denial, Burns of debauchery, Byron of lust, Coleridge of indulgence. Our lost years do not return; our wasted opportunities come no more. The tracks made in the soul by habits, though no longer used, are there still.

But the side of degeneracy is not all. The law that inner character stamps the outer life works for good as effectively as for ill. He who thinks high thoughts will lift up his head and in his eye the light of heaven will shine. He who loves things noble shall become noble. There is no hiding the good in the bad, too, cries aloud. An honest man needs no advertising; he cannot wholly hide himself.

The expectation that you actually can be one thing and appear to be another is doomed to disappointment. Hypocrisy is the saddest fallacy in the world. The disguises of the pretender are so thin that the simplest see through them. What you are speaks so loud as to drown altogether any declarations you may make of what you wish men to think you are. The deceiver deceives no one but himself.

How many there are who recognize this law working in others who yet hope to escape it themselves. They seek to erect a wall between their life in public and in private. On one side they exhibit the upright, respectable citizen; on the other is the man of devious ways, of devilish imaginations, of foul thoughts and base, sordid greed, or injustice and oppression. How long does duplicity appear as sincerity? How long is it before both sides are known to all who know either one?

Before his dreadful crime became known men felt that there was something fearful hidden in the breast of Eugene Aram. You are known, and your whole destiny is determined, by your whole self and not by that part alone which you prepare especially for publicity.

He does well who guards the door of his heart, who keeps the springs of character from pollution, who builds up in strength and beauty the sources of life. Ideals, aspirations, secret thoughts, imaginations, habits, and companionships determine character, and character is destiny. Well for us if the world may trace in us something that reminds of the good and great; see marks of having companied with such an one as the son of man and having learned of him.

REAL JOY OF LIVING.

By Rabbi Joseph Silverman.

Above all that is to be guarded, guard thy heart, for out of it are the issues of life.—Proverbs iv., 23.

The scientist has no difficulty with this text, for to him the heart seems to be the very mainspring of life—that delicate machinery that pumps the blood into the arteries and sends it coursing through the body. But the text comes freighted with a strange philosophy when taken in a spiritual sense. Ordinarily men guard the mind, the thinking process, to keep it free from error and false judgment.

They forget that the heart ripens before the mind, that the child feels, loves, before it thinks. Throughout life our emotions are engaged before thought has aroused itself. In fact, we think what we feel. We are slaves of our master—the heart.

Guard the heart of the young child and do not with coldness, indifference or harshness crush out of its early life that simple, natural sublime love for the true, the beautiful and good. Leave not that tender heart to the mercies of a stranger—good nurse though she be—but be yourself to it like a good God, nourishing, strengthening, cheering its sweet and hungry soul. Bind its heart to yours by the tendrils of love, and when it is grown strong it will spread out its foliage of affection over you in your old age.

The adult should also guard his own heart—in order to conserve the highest life. The practical world is barren of sentiment, and therefore it is warped and dwarfed. To lust after the great things is to meet disappointment. But to love a faded flower, an old picture, a select poem, a letter of bygone days—to steal away from the maddening crowd and feast one's eyes upon a love token, hallowed by sweet memories—that is to broaden and deepen the soul. Let the tears come; they are as medicine to the heart—just as the rain is nourishment to the soil. Presently the smile of contentment, like a ray of sunshine, will dispel the clouds and life appear serene and happy and a great peace will be distilled over you out of heaven.

Nor is this nurture of the heart altogether selfish. Sentiment and love must find something—some one to feed on. The well kept heart exhales a sympathy that goes out to the forlorn and lonely and needy and fills up their lives with sunshine.

And, in a sense, the heart of man conditions the destinies of the world. Pure intellect never reformed mankind. It is mind run to heart; intellect melted into feeling, and thus turned into conviction that has set men aflame with righteous indignation against wrong and with a holy enthusiasm for the truth and the right. What armies could not do, what violence and bloodshed could not accomplish, the preacher, the prophet, the man "intoxicated with God" has effected. His heart was in his work and it lives.

DEFINES LIFE'S PATHWAY.

By Rev. John Roach Straton.

There are just two possible ways that we can walk in life—the right way and the wrong way. This is true in the relation of husband and wife, parent and child, in the business life and in the spiritual life. Honesty, honesty and honesty every way has won about through small beginnings in the wrong way.

It is to be observed, too, that the wrong way often seems exactly right. The devil has the power of transforming himself into an angel of light. He can come to seduce us from the right way with the most plausible and fair-seeming methods.

In the spiritual interest to-day some of us are trying to take a short cut. We are trusting culture to save us, or morality or good works or some other man-made plan, and these things to the human reason seem exactly right, but they lead at last to destruction and the death of the soul. There is but one way of salvation and that is Jesus Christ.

SKIN DISEASES HUMORS IN THE BLOOD

When the blood is pure, fresh and healthy, the skin will be soft, smooth and free from blemishes, but when some acid humor takes root in the circulation its presence is manifested by a skin eruption or disease. These humors get into the blood, generally because of an inactive or sluggish condition of the members of the body whose duty it is to collect and carry off the waste and refuse matter of the system. This unhealthy matter is left to sour and ferment and soon the circulation becomes charged with the acid poison. The blood begins to throw off the humors and acids through the pores and glands of the skin, producing Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Psoriasis, Salt Rheum and skin eruptions of various kinds. Eczema appears, usually with a slight redness of the skin followed by pustules from which there flows a sticky fluid that dries and forms a crust, and the itching is intense. It is generally on the back, breast, face, arms and legs, though other parts of the body may be affected. In Tetter the skin dries, cracks and bleeds; the acid in the blood dries up the natural oils of the skin, which are intended to keep it soft and pliant, causing a dry, feverish condition and giving it a hard, leathery appearance. Acne makes its appearance on the face in the form of pimples and black heads, while Psoriasis comes in scaly patches on different parts of the body. One of the worst forms of skin trouble is Salt Rheum; its favorite point of attack is the scalp, sometimes causing baldness. Poison Oak and Ivy are also disagreeable types of skin disease. The humor producing the trouble lies dormant in the blood through the Winter to break out and torment the sufferer with the return of Spring. The best treatment for all skin diseases is S. S. S. It neutralizes the acids and removes the humors so that the skin instead of being irritated and diseased, is nourished by a supply of fresh, healthy blood. External applications of salves, washes, lotions, etc., while they soothe the itching caused by skin affections, can never get blood to its normal, pure condition. S. S. S. is the very form of skin medicine that is the most desired sent by first class drug stores.

I suffered with Eczema for forty years and could find nothing to cure me until I tried S. S. S. I suffered intensely with the itching and burning; pustules would form from which there flowed a sticky fluid; crusts would come on the skin and when scratched off the skin was left as raw as a piece of beef. I suffered agony in the long years I was afflicted, but when I used S. S. S. I found a perfect cure. There has never been any return of the trouble.

NO STRIKE TACOMA WORKMEN

Members of Building Trades Go Into Competition With Masters.

Tacoma, April 25.—There will be no general strike of workmen in the building trades here, according to a statement made by one of the local labor leaders. The men are now on strike as far as members of the Builders' Exchange are concerned, the latter having locked them out unless they work under the open shop plan. But the most of the workmen are engaged with other contractors.

The men have gone into competition with their former masters. Instead of getting up a big strike and causing a lot of industrial disorder in the community, they are quietly going along and taking the business away from the contractors wherever they can, and when the contractors get hurt badly enough in this way the union men expect them to come around and agree to be good according to the union standard.

The musical festival, an annual event at the State College at Pullman, will be held this year May 1, 2 and 3.

Over eighty business men of Walla Walla have signed a petition protesting to the city council against substituting private licensed garbage wagons for city carts as scavengers in the business district.

Last week, a Tacoma dealer purchased from Alderton parties 50 bales of good medium hops at 3½ cents a pound. This is the lowest price ever paid for hops of like quality on Puget sound, except probably during the hard times when growers had great difficulty in disposing of their hops at any price.

The state superintendent's office is sending out to the county superintendents of the state the examination questions for the quarterly examination of teachers which will be held May 11, 12 and 13, and for the eighth grade examinations to be held May 16 and 17. The markers who will pass upon the manuscripts from the teachers' examination will begin their work in Olympia May 15.

To Reappoint Lawrence

Seattle, April 27.—J. C. Lawrence will be reappointed member of the board of state railway commissioners, according to a statement made by Gov. Mead while in the city. The appointment will be for the long term of six years.

AT JAMESTOWN FAIR

PRESIDENT MAKES SPEECH AND TOUCHES GOLD BUTTON.

Naval Pageant Such as Has Rarely Been Witnessed Anywhere—All the Powers of Europe Represented by Goodly Fleets—Some Comparisons.

Norfolk, Va., April 27.—With roar of cannon and all the pomp of the greatest naval pageant that ever floated on Western shores; with flags of all nations and representatives from every nation that has a flag; with greeting from the new world to the old, and with the president of the United States as guest of honor, the Jamestown Tercentennial exposition was opened yesterday.

Incident to the opening the president reviewed from the deck of the Mayflower the war vessels anchored in Hampton roads. He reached Discovery landing, having been transferred in a naval launch from his yacht shortly before noon, and amid applause from the thousands gathered to voice their welcome he was received by the exposition management.

Then followed the program for opening to the country the enterprise commemorating the 300th anniversary of the first English settlement on American soil, which program included an address by Harry St. George Tucker, president of the exposition and one by President Roosevelt; singing by the exposition chorus of 700 trained voices, the pressing of the gold button by President Roosevelt, which marked the formal opening and a review by the president of the assembled military forces.

NAVAL PAGEANT WAS IMPOSING SPECTACLE

Washington, April 27.—President Roosevelt yesterday reviewed at Hampton Roads the most formidable array of ships ever gathered in United States waters. The occasion possessed some international significance, because practically all the members of the diplomatic corps were present and were furnished with a striking object lesson of the power and extent of the United States navy.

While there were representatives of the European powers in the great naval rendezvous, the United States fleet naturally overshadowed everything else. It far eclipses in fighting strength the vessels assembled in Oyster Bay last year, and is probably the strongest force that will be gathered under the Stars and Stripes for years to come.

The fleet embraces sixteen first class battleships, three huge armored cruisers, four protected cruisers and a swarm of torpedo boats, torpedo boat destroyers, submarines, colliers and supply ships.

The fleet includes the latest completed vessels of this class, the Connecticut and Louisiana, forerunners of the Dreadnaughts that are to be built, down to the all but abandoned Texas, the oldest of the United States battleships and sister of the Maine, which was wrecked in Havana harbor.

Texas Shows Progress

With her eight guns and paltry 6,315 tons of weight, the Texas, when ranged alongside the mammoth Connecticut, which mounts 24 guns and displaces 17,000 tons of water, offers a striking example of the progress of the United States navy since the days of 1866, when the Texas and first Maine were authorized by congress.

The armored cruisers Tennessee and Washington, each of 14,500 tons and mounting 20 guns each, are the heaviest of the cruisers. They can hurl a weight of metal almost equal to the first class battleships, while at the same time they possess the fleetness of the ocean greyhound, the massive throbbing engines in their holds being capable of the development of 20,000 horsepower.

In the cruiser class the most interesting vessel is perhaps the Brooklyn, the flagship of Rear Admiral Schley in the battle with Cervera's squadron of Santiago, Cuba. The Brooklyn, bearing on her after-turret the memorable plate simply and eloquently inscribed "July 3, 1898," will remain with the Texas as a permanent exhibit during the seven months of the life of the exposition.

Salmon Review Out

Seattle, April 27.—The Trade Register today issued the annual salmon review which is a feature of that publication. It gives the total pack of the canneries on the Coast in the season of 1906 at 3,805,211 cases, which is larger than had been anticipated. Of the total the Alaska canneries put up 2,209,555 cases and those of Puget sound 436,394, of which 182,472 were sockeye and the rest chums and cohoes.

WORK IN TACOMA SOON

Union Pacific Contracts to Be Awarded With But Little Delay.

Tacoma, April 27.—As soon as contracts can be awarded the Union Pacific railroad will begin work on terminals and right of way in Tacoma. Part of the property owned by the railroad company has been vacated by the tenants and the slower ones have been warned that construction will likely be begun by the last of next week. As soon as men and material are arranged for work on the 3,700-foot tunnel through the city will be begun, as it is one of the largest pieces of work to be undertaken by the railroad in Tacoma. When the Harriman lines are completed in Tacoma the city will contain one of the most extensive and best equipped railroad properties in America. There will be room for 6,000 cars in the ample yards and, according to officials of the road.

KAISER FEARS FOR PEACE OF WORLD

Berlin, April 27.—A great deal of gossip has been caused here by the discovery that the kaiser has been opposing the projected international exposition which it has been proposed to hold here in 1913. The reason advanced to account for the kaiser's stand is that he is convinced Germany will be embroiled with another big European war before that time.

The statement that Kaiser Wilhelm opposes the proposed exposition on such grounds has caused a great sensation. It is argued that the government fears that the peace of the world is in constant jeopardy and great uneasiness has been caused among the people who feel they do not know all the complications of the nation.

What particular power the kaiser fears is not disclosed, but it is broadly hinted that the last has not yet been heard of the Orient Bank affair and that both Russia and Great Britain are determined they will not relinquish their carefully mapped out plans in Persia, which have been gravely imperilled by the financial interposition of Germany.

TO REGISTER TITLES UNDER TORRENS LAW

Seattle, April 25.—The provisions of the Torrens system of land titles embodied in the law passed at the session of the state legislature invoked Tuesday for the first time, when County Auditor Agnew received an application from the Superior Land Company, of Seattle, asking that their property be registered under the Torrens law, and that necessary papers be forwarded to them. The auditor is not yet ready to begin the registration, but expects to have all the necessary arrangements made by the time the law goes into effect, on June 19 next.

From thirty to forty index books are in course of preparation for the purpose of making it possible to trace title by name. There are also many papers to prepare, but Chief Deputy Brier announces that all will be in readiness by June 19.

The system will stimulate superior court business, as the status of all titles must be decreed by a judge of the superior court.

B. C. LEGISLATURE ENDS

Lieutenant Governor Assents to All Acts But Immigration.

Victoria, April 27.—The British Columbia legislature has adjourned. The lieutenant governor assented to all acts with the exception of the immigration act, to which assent was reserved in consequence of its anti-Japanese clauses, which are considered as against imperial interests. There has not been much important legislation at this session. The fisheries act was passed to assert British Columbia's right to the provincial fisheries to which the federal government claims control. The land act was reorganized and the pharmacy act amended so that department stores are prohibited from selling drugs. A bill was passed reserving 2,000,000 acres of government land, to be selected within three years, for the establishment and maintenance of a provincial university.

Cost of Living Still Increases

Washington, April 29.—The bureau of labor has taken another look into the cost of living and it finds it is still increasing. Its latest examination had to do with wholesale prices only. It is now making a study of retail prices. The investigation just completed shows that wholesale prices, considering 253 commodities, as a whole, reached a higher level in 1906 than at any other time during the 17 year period covered. The average of 1906 was 56 per cent higher than for 1905; 36.5 per cent higher than for 1897, the year of lowest prices during the 17-year period, and 224 per cent higher than the average for the ten years from 1890 to 1899.

IN THOMPSON CASE

STATE SUPREME COURT RENDERS DECISION.

Disposal of Insane Criminals Rests With Trial Judge—May Be Imprisoned in Penitentiary, County Jail or Asylum for the Insane.

Olympia, April 29.—Chester Thompson, who killed G. Meade Emory, may be legally sent to prison, is the decision of the state supreme court, rendered Saturday afternoon in the application made for a writ of mandate to compel Trial Judge Snell, of the Pierce county superior court, to empanel a jury to determine Thompson's present sanity, and for a writ to prohibit that judge from ordering Thompson committed to prison. In its decision, which denies both these writs, the supreme court says the case is governed by the old territorial law of 1854, evoked in the case of Thomas Brown, of Chehalis, who was acquitted of fratricide on the ground of insanity and promptly ordered confined in prison. The decision in part says:

Ruling of the Court.

"When we remember that there are different types of insanity and when we reflect that the purpose of caring for the insane involves both a regard for them and for the safety of the public, we cannot say that this statute conflicts with any subsequent statute or any principle of sound public policy. Good reasons readily occur in justification of its enactment.

"There are occasionally defendants acquitted of murder on the ground of insanity who should and can be committed to the penitentiary under this statute. A defendant so committed or otherwise restrained of his liberty would have the right, upon a recovery of his sanity, to question of such recovery determined by the court.

Authority for Sentence

"The statute in question on the committing of a defendant to the penitentiary on the discharge of such insane defendant from the court is not unconstitutional."

conclude that the verdict of the jury is insane at the time and unless there is conclusive evidence that condition has undergone a change toward a normal condition since that time, the trial judge should not hesitate to find him dangerous within the meaning of the statute—unless, of course, his present condition by reason of sickness or otherwise should have rendered him absolutely incapable of doing violence.

"We think the word 'prison' used in this statute comprehends the penitentiary, any county jail and any state hospital for the insane, and that the trial judge may commit to any of these in accordance with the nature of the alleged insanity and the other facts of any given case."

SPokane Makes First

USE OF DIRECT PRIMARY

Spokane, April 25.—O. Herbert Moore, candidate of what is known as the anti-ring Republicans of Spokane, was named at the direct primary election yesterday, as the Republican candidate for mayor. He received 3,345 votes and his opponent, W. J. Doust, 2,116.

Mayor Floyd Daggett was the only candidate for the Democratic primary ticket. He received 711 votes, Democrats generally refraining from voting, except in the few wards where there was rivalry for councilmanic nominations.

HERMANN JURY SAYS

HE IS NOT GUILTY

Washington, April 29.—Binger Hermann, former congressman from Oregon and former commissioner of the general land office, was acquitted of the charge of destroying public records by a verdict of the jury Saturday.

The trial had progressed for twelve weeks and the jury deliberated 21 hours. After the verdict there was immediately a general scene of congratulation in the court room. Mr. Hermann expressed thanks to each juror, as did his counsel.

United States Attorney Baker and many others in the court room congratulated the defendant.

Miss Audrey Stevens has returned to school after having had diphtheria.

Mr. Ralph Sample is sick at his home with measles.

Mr. Nelson and family of Northrup, have moved to Fremont.

Dr. Simonds, pastor of the First Unitarian Church of Seattle, gave a lecture on the "Richest Man in the World," last Friday evening, April 26th.

Prof. Daggy, professor of oratory at the University, gave a lecture on "Anglo-Saxon Grit" last Saturday evening, April 27th.

Mr. Elmer Bennings and family of Minneapolis, have recently arrived here and intend to make either this place or Seattle their permanent home.

Miss Ethel Provan has stopped school on account of the illness of her father.

Miss Etta Brooks is on the sick list.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Price have returned from an extended trip through the southern and middle states, but found nothing to compare with the Sound country. They returned to make this their permanent home.

The lecture, entitled "The Richest Man in the World," given by Rev. Simonds, of Seattle, was most pleasing and instructive. Those who heard it enjoyed a treat. The next lecture of the school course will be given by Dr. Matthews, of Seattle.

A. T. Churchill and family accompanied by A. B. Newell and wife made a flying trip to Snoqualmie Falls on Wednesday in Mr. Churchill's auto-car.

We wish to remind the people that the Kirkland Library is still flourishing. We have about 600 volumes and will get a new consignment in a short time. The library is open on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week. We would like every one in Kirkland to become a member of the Improvement Club, which supports this library.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Fullerton and family are occupying the McKay place. Mr. Fullerton is an old soldier and an active and progressive citizen. We are fortunate in getting such additions to our community.

Mr. and Mrs. Newell expect to take a trip to the western coast of Oregon for a week or ten days.

Don't fail to hear the orchestra next Friday evening at the Assembly room in school building.

On Tuesday evening the Epworth League met at the parsonage to complete arrangements for the orchestra concert next Friday evening. Other business was attended to and plans made for future work.

The residents on the Kirkland rural delivery route are pleased that their carrier, Mr. A. W. Seely, is to continue delivering their mail.

Mrs. Ed. Jones and family of Seattle, visited her sister, Mrs. E. E. Gilbert Sunday.

J. Carlston, who lives on the Issaquah road, reports that his incubator and chicken house were destroyed last Thursday night by the explosion of the incubator lamp.

Notices have been posted calling for bids to clear and improve a part of Marion and Market streets, also to build a sidewalk on Richmond street.

Rev. Mackintosh is at present in Tacoma holding special meetings.

A number of automobiles crossed the lake on Sunday. The Seattle people are slowly learning that the stopping of the ferry hasn't cut off communication between Seattle and the east side entirely.

The Young People's Union of the Baptist church of Kirkland, will give a bonfire social on the church grounds on Saturday evening, May 11th. Ice cream and cake will be served. Everybody come and enjoy a jolly, good time round a jolly, good fire, with jolly, good people.

Mr. and Mrs. Ollis Patty have returned from a visit to Lowell, Wash. You should step in the store and have Ollis give you the fish story.

The Owen's place, east of Northrup, was sold to W. A. Clark recently for $4,200. It includes 20 acres of land and a six-room residence.

The frost of the last few nights has seriously affected the early strawberries all over King county.

The Sun will have an Independent phone in place before the next issue. Phone in your items on Tuesday morning.

Wm. Thaanum, assistant cashier of the Scandinavian-American Bank, went to Wenatchee yesterday on business.

Mrs. Geo. Elliot is slowly recovering from a lingering illness.

A wharf is being built at Yarrow by Geo. F. Meacham, who will put a number of acre tracts on the market in a short time. He has a large force of men at work clearing the land.

When the Urania, the sister boat to the Fortuna, is completed and put on the Kirkland run the problem of quick transportation will be pretty satisfactorily solved. The Fortuna was on this run yesterday and left the Kirkland city dock at 1:30, making four stops and arriving at Madison street at 1:58. The new boat will make the direct run in 18 minutes. This will bring Kirkland within a 40-minute run of Madison street and Second avenue. How does this compare with the other suburbs of Seattle?

Local real estate men say that the inquiries for Kirkland real estate are coming in more rapidly than ever before. The people are discovering that the east side of Lake Washington is soon to be a very important portion of King county.

Miss Vivian Adams, of Seattle, the daughter of Mrs. Frank Adams, formerly of the U. S. army, visited Kirkland to-day.

The woolen mill shut down yesterday for lack of coal. A scow of coal, consigned to this mill, sank at Renton Monday.

ORCHESTRA CONCERT.

The Sun is pleased to announce in its first issue the concert to be given next Friday evening, May 3, at 8:15 p. m. The entertainment will be given by the orchestra of the Sunday school of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Seattle. This orchestra has been organized nearly seven years, but heretofore has refused to play outside of the Sunday school. They have decided to give a few concerts this summer, and the people of Kirkland and surrounding country are very fortunate in having this opportunity of listening to one of their excellent programs.

The local Epworth League will have charge and serve ice cream and cake at the close of the program.

You will miss an evening of pleasure and enjoyment if you fail to attend next Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock in the Assembly room of the public school.

SALUTATORY.

The Kirkland-Redmond Sun makes its initial bow to the public under conditions that are somewhat unique. It is enabled to omit the swaddling clothes period of its existence and enjoy at once the healthy flush of robust youth. Starting with a subscription list larger than many publications acquire after years of struggle, with an advertising patronage that promises a prosperous career and with an assurance that its community is behind it, heart and soul, the Sun will well assume an air of confidence and satisfaction.

The aim and purpose of this paper shall be to publish abroad the resources of the east side of Lake Washington, and endeavor in every way to hasten the development of this wonderful section of the county, which is inevitable, but somewhat tardy. It will work to keep the people in touch with the progress that is being made, will labor unceasingly to influence new enterprises to locate here, and will strive to voice the sentiments of its community in an unbiased and broad-minded manner.

The Sun will refrain from discussing local political affairs, and general politics will be absolutely independent. It will favor no party or individual. Its one purpose is to boost the east side of Lake Washington, and if it fulfills its duty the satisfaction of its laborers will feel that its labors are not in vain.

BETTER TRAIN SERVICE REQUIRED.

The North Bend branch of the Northern Pacific is doing a tremendous business at present. The inbound freight, coming down every other day, often carries so many loaded cars that the engine is barely able to keep it moving, even on a level grade. The passenger train, both at morning and night, is so crowded that many passengers are forced to stand. We need a daily freight service and another passenger train, going up in the morning and down at night. The people along the entire line should join in a monster petition to the railroad company for this improvement in the service. Such a petition would undoubtedly be heeded.

BETTER MAIL SERVICE.

A petition is being circulated in Redmond for a mail service direct from Seattle via Kirkland and the stage. This would mean that much of the mail which now arrives in Redmond at 6:34 p. m. would reach here at 12:30 p. m. The daily papers are at present brought by stage, arriving here at that time, and there seems to be no reason why a mail sack, leaving the Seattle postoffice at 9:30 a. m. should not be sent through in this way. Redmond is only twelve miles from Seattle and deserves a better mail service.

AUTOS CAN CROSS THE LAKE.
 A great many Seattle automobilists have the mistaken idea that since the Kirkland ferry has been taken off the run it is impossible to get their machines to this side of the lake. If they will refer to the time table of the Anderson Steamboat Company they will find that the service is nearly the same as it used to be. The scow, which has taken the place of the condemned ferry, is covered and perfectly safe, and will accommodate a dozen machines comfortably. It makes just as good time as the old ferry, and there is no reason why the run to Snoqualmie via Kirkland should not be as popular now as ever before.

ELECTRIC LIGHT FOR THE EAST SIDE.

At the last meeting of the Kirkland Commercial Club a committee was appointed to take up the matter with the Seattle-Tacoma Power Co. of running a branch from the nearest point on their main line to Redmond, and from there to Kirkland and along the east lake front. The company is to increase its capacity this summer and will be able to take up this new field. The proposed line would probably branch off somewhere in the vicinity of Issaquah and follow the east shore of Lake Sammamish to Redmond, a distance of twelve miles. This would undoubtedly be a paying proposition for the company, as every place of business and nearly every residence would take light, and many would use power.

There is a great deal of fir being wasted at the mills hereabout which could be worked up into lath. There is no doubt much ignorance as to the good qualities of fir lath and considerable educational work may be necessary to widen the market and create a demand. Fir lath are strong, and when fastened with out nails there is but little trouble of splitting. No other wood used in making lath has the strength of fir. There is no reason why the local mills should not utilize their waste in this manner. Lath machinery is neither intricate nor expensive and the demand for this product is increasing. The price is strengthening commensurately with the increase in the price of lumber.

 Aye! I long for sweet fellowship with Thee.
 I have Thee so confidently clinging to my Side again;
 What joyful happiness to walk, alone,
 with Thee!
 Methinks there is no Earthly pleasure
 half so Sweet:
 "Your winning ways, how mighty to Constrain."
 How many long for Riches, Fame and Power?
 Earth could give to me no greater Treasure.
 And I would not ask or crave a Gift that's Rarer, or more apt to Soothe, and fill an aching void than
 The heart's devotion of the little Maid
 I love.
 Day by day I would I might be near Thee.
 Or to commune with Thee in pleasant
 Thoughts
 That memory oft recalls in sweet Refrains,
 Hallow'd by tender Recollections of
 Thee.
 How shall I now describe the "Hunger of the Soul"
 Unless I could express the Loneliness
 I feel?
 No worm can gnaw the Vitals never so keenly!
 Granted that absence makes the heart
 grow Fonder;
 Even so, Separation gives to us an inward Pain,
 Regardless of our Hopes, our Aims, or Fears.
 Fancy oft pictures the Future bright
 with promise,
 Or fain would make our Mother Earth a Paradise.
 Right doing will exalt a Man, or elevate a Nation!
 Transient and changing are all things
 on our Sphere!
 Heaven may in the future send us Consolation;
 Youth and Opportunity both are fleeting fast away.
 Children will into Men and Women later grow,
 Of that we'll be Convinced as the Years
 Roll by.
 May our future Lives be happy as our Infant days,
 Pages in the Book of Life's recorded
 Deeds,
 All free from ugly Blots, or guilty
 Stains;
 Not a leaf may we turn o'er to ever
 give us Shame,
 In all we hope, or do, and think or Dare.
 Our lives, at best, are but a little span of Time,
 Nor should we be aught but Courteous
 and Kind,
 Since we can only pass This Way but Once;
 Hence, we should always do the best we can
 In shedding "Smiles of Sunshine" all around us.
