ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR

COMMERCIAL CLUB MEETS AT REDMOND.

Large Delegation From Kirkland Visits the Sister Town.

A dozen Kirkland business men drove to Redmond Monday evening, the occasion being the regular meeting of the Commercial Club at that place. Although the Redmond citizens did not turn out very extensively, an interesting and beneficial meeting was held. Following is a copy of the official minutes:

Minutes of a meeting of the Kirkland Commercial Club, held at Redmond the 27th day of May, 1907:

Meeting called to order by President Newell. Minutes of last meeting read and approved.

The special committee appointed to keep in touch of the new ferry reported as follows:

"The county commissioners have now under consideration plans for a new double deck ferry, one hundred and fifty feet long, and will be ready to let the contract for building the same within thirty days. They are aiming to get the specifications so that everything wanted in the new boat will be mentioned, and that there will not be any extras to pay for."

Remarks by C. H. Younger on the water supply for Kirkland; by W. P. Perrigo on how to get a supply for Kirkland; by C. L. Andrews on the report of the committee to look after the repairs on the Redmond road.

It was requested that the Kirkland-Redmond Sun ask for volunteers on next Friday to load gravel for the said road. Remarks by W. P. Perrigo, who proposes to ask the county commissioners to help repair the said road leading east. Remarks by C. W. Robinson, who is now working on the road for the Automobile Club and expects to be to the east line of Kirkland in about one week.

W. P. Perrigo: Mr. Clise corresponded with some members of the Kirkland board and if they build their end of the road, he will help some on the balance.

D. D. Gregg: I have information from the county commissioners who say that they are not going to do anything on the Redmond road this year except repair it.

W. P. Perrigo: I wish to have the road fixed and I think that we should insist on its being improved this summer.

President Newell: I think we should take some steps to get more subscribers and provide a salary for our secretary and treasurer, Mr. Stevens. We have gained about 100 subscriptions since our last meeting.

Moved that the matter of getting subscribers be placed in the hands of the committee and left to their discretion. Carried.

Moved and Resolved, That it is the wish of this club that the salary of the secretary be one hundred dollars per year. Carried.

Remarks by the secretary on the good roads of King county. The secretary remarked that he was very much disappointed at there not being a better attendance at Redmond, as the club had expected to find a very large attendance and more enthusiasm manifested.

Mr. Perrigo: I wish the members to come again next month and see whether the Redmond people want the club to meet here.

Mr. Sykes: I think it is quite a burden on the members living in Kirkland to come over to Redmond and the members living here ought to turn out at the meetings.

Mr. Elliott: I am not at all disappointed even if there is not a very large attendance. I think the Redmond people are in sympathy with the club and will eventually come out to the meetings.

Mr. Perrigo: I am of the opinion that the question of transportation is of utmost importance to this part of King county. The roads should be made much better and the ferry boat should be controlled and operated by the taxpayers and for their benefit.

Moved that a committee of three be appointed to co-operate with Samuel Hill in the matter of good roads and that the chairman of the committee be Mr. R. H. Collins.

The president appointed W. P. Perrigo and Mr. Collins and deferred the appointment of the other member until later.

Mr. Sykes: I believe there is a survey for a road south of here and it is reported that the county is going to spend several thousand dollars on it this summer. I am in favor of the old road being improved even if they build the new one. I also think the ferry boat should be maintained by the county and eventually be run free. Moved to adjourn.

WM. R. STEVENS,
Secretary.

COME AND SCRATCH GRAVEL.

Volunteers Called for to Load Scow on Friday, May 31.

The city council have been trying for some time to find men enough to load a scow with gravel to be placed on that portion of the Kirkland-Redmond road that is within the city limits of Kirkland. This being seemingly impossible they have called for volunteers to meet at the dock at 8 o'clock Friday morning to go over on the scow to Sand Point and get a load of gravel. Kirkland men have donated six teams to haul the gravel from the scow to the portions of the road where it is needed. There should be at least twenty men on hand Friday morning, each armed with a scoop shovel, if possible, and there should be at least half a dozen wheelbarrows. The ladies of the Kirkland Improvement Club will be asked to furnish victuals and drink for the volunteers, and the day should be made a gala day for all who take part.

The Kirkland-Redmond road is now in pretty good shape with the exception of the few rods that are within the Kirkland city limits. It is absolutely necessary that this portion be attended to at once, hence every man who has his town's welfare at heart will be present at the dock on Friday morning ready to get in and dig.

THE SUBSCRIPTION CONTEST.

The Sun's contest, explained elsewhere in this issue, is creating even more interest than was expected. Young ladies from each of the towns have applied to become contestants, but so far only two have been chosen: Miss Tressie Gilbert of Kirkland, and Miss Irene Westby of Redmond. The contest begins in earnest next Wednesday noon, although all subscriptions procured by the contestants before that time will be accredited to them. The next issue will contain a coupon, good for five votes. Be sure and cut it out and give it to your favorite contestant. Watch for a write-up and picture of each of the young ladies in the next issue.

INVITATION.

Mayor and Citizens of Kirkland, citizens of Bothell, Redmond and Bellevue:

The Officers and directors of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition request the honor of your presence on Saturday, June 1, at 2 o'clock p. m. in Seattle to participate in the ceremony of breaking the ground for their exposition, to be held June 1 to October 1, 1909.

ATTEND THE A.-Y.-P. EXERCISES SATURDAY.

Every one who possibly can do so should attend the ground-breaking ceremonies for the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition on Saturday, June 1. Addresses will be delivered by some of the most able speakers in the country, and the occasion will have the tendency to generate enthusiasm in this great undertaking that is right at our doors.

Ferry Plans Nearly Completed.

The county commissioners state that the plans for the new Seattle-Kirkland ferry are nearly ready, so that bids for the building of the boat can be advertised for. They state that the contract will probably be let within 30 days.

The boat will be a double-decker, 150 feet long, made of wood treated to a process that will greatly lengthen its life. It will resemble the new West Seattle boat which was recently built at Tacoma.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY SERVICE.

The annual union Memorial Sunday service was held last Sunday at 11 o'clock a. m. in the Methodist Episcopal Church. The room had been tastefully decorated by the members of the Epworth League with flowers and the national colors, red, white and blue. Many attended the services. Five survivors of the great Civil war, Wm. Littlefield, J. J. Beard, C. H. Daniels, M. S. Phillips and W. C. Sharp, were present and occupied the seat of honor.

It was the turn of the Rev. A. Mackintosh of the Baptist Church to preach the memorial sermon. As he could not be present, the Rev. D. R. Tomlin, pastor of the Congregational Church, like a true soldier, filled the gap in the ranks and delivered a most excellent sermon upon the great theme of Memorial Day. Miss Mary Tomlin added greatly to the service by singing as an offertory solo, "Thy Will Be Done." Thus was Memorial Sunday fittingly observed in our midst.

BRIDAL BELLS.

A happy company of relatives, friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cook last Sunday afternoon in honor of the marriage of their daughter Anna Elizabeth. The home was tastefully decorated for the festive occasion. At two o'clock the bridal party entered the room. Mr. Guy L. Howard, the fortunate bridegroom, was attended by Mr. Cook, brother of the bride, and Miss Anna E. Cook, the bride, tastefully dressed in white, was attended by Miss Howard, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid.

As the strains of the wedding march ceased the bridal party took their places in a bower of snowball blossoms, where the Rev. Frank R. Gillett of the Methodist Episcopal Church of Kirkland, spoke the words that made their husband and wife.

After the usual congratulations the company were served with refreshments. The happy couple received many useful presents. They will reside in this vicinity where the groom is engaged in logging.

EIGHTH GRADE GRADUATION.

On Friday, May 24th, at Kirkland school, the Eighth grade students who had passed the state examination, were graduated.

The students marched onto the rostrum to the time of the piano played by Miss Tressie Gilbert.

The students supplied the program, which was highly entertaining to the large audience assembled.

In the absence of Superintendent Storey the principal delivered diplomas to Misses Anna Wilson, Myrtle Hanks, Bernice Woodward, Gertrude Lanahle; Messrs. Roy Gilbert and Ralph Sample.

Attendance diplomas were given to Forrest Andrews, Eddie Starks, Ada Starks and Clifford Niblock.

After the exercises the Seventh grade students entertained the graduates at a banquet. They also entertained the members of the Board of Education and the Eighth grade teachers.

Toasts were offered by Mr. R. H. Collins, Mrs. Boggs, Mr. Hibbs, Miss Jerdee and Mr. Reese.

All present voted it a most pleasant ending for the evening.

REDMOND NOTES.

Some miscreant recently entered McAllister's livery stable while no one was around and nearly ruined Dr. Kieffer's buggy by slashing it with a knife. It is believed that the person who did it thought the buggy belonged to another party whom he had a grudge against.

J. F. Weber's smaller shingle mill on Lake Sammamish was nearly wrecked last Friday by the breaking of the piston rod of the engine. The mill will be shut down for about three weeks in consequence.

Jack Stevens has bought two of W. L. Wepler's teams and will engage in teaming in Seattle.

Charlie Martin and his mother moved into the old Brown residence last Friday.

Mrs. Flint has sold nearly all of her household goods and will join her husband in Portland shortly. He has obtained a position in that city.

F. W. Walther was in Seattle Monday.

A. C. Smith, teacher of the Union Hill school, gave his pupils a pleasant picnic last Saturday to mark the closing of the year's work.

Judge White has had a serious time of it fighting fire on his upper farm the last few days. He lost considerable fencing and a few cords of railroad ties.

Wm. Bland and Baby Bland left Sunday for their home in Kent after a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Walther.

Miss Juanita Wilhelmina Symmonds entertained a number of her little friends Saturday afternoon, May 18, in honor of her fourth birthday at the home of her grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. M. Graves, at Idylewyde Ranch in Happy valley. The afternoon was spent in playing games, after which a dainty luncheon was served, when the little guests departed to their homes wishing Miss Juanita many happy returns of the day. Those present were, Miss Adina Anderson, Miss Georgia Turple, Miss Elsie Carlson, Miss Sadie Cooper, Miss Ethel Cooper, Miss Alga Carlson, Miss Nancie Larson and Miss Juanita Symmonds.

Mrs. Will R. Symmonds and her little daughter Juanita have returned to their home in Seattle after having spent a week with Mrs. Symmonds' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. D. Graves at Idylewyde Ranch in Happy valley.

Perry Robertson, the N. P. timber cruiser, an old time friend of F. W. Walther, was over from Tacoma on Friday.

A full blooded Arrshire bull was shipped from the Clise stock farm Monday to Chas. Abbottsford, Sumas, Wash. The animal was a beautiful specimen, being 16 months old and weighing 1,200 pounds.

J. W. Clise is building a pretty cottage on the opposite side of the slough from his present buildings. He has just finished moving his family from their Seattle home, corner Highland Drive and Warren Avenue, to their Redmond place. Mr. Clise has just had 15 acres planted to corn for ensilage.

Redmond business men should read carefully the minutes of the meeting of the Kirkland Commercial Club, held in Redmond Monday evening. They will see that there was much business transacted along the lines that should interest them. Why so few Redmond men saw fit to attend this meeting is something of a mystery. It is hoped that they will avail themselves of the next opportunity given them and turn out and take part in the proceedings.

An Exposition Ode

(Apropos of the breaking of ground for the Exposition on Saturday, June 1, 1907.)

From the Northland, south and eastward
Ye have gathered at the call,
To a spot whereon man's prowess
Soon will wrest from nature's thrall
Untried earth and virgin timber,
And will rear up structures grand,
There to blazon forth the glories
Of the western treasure land.

Ye shall see as time rolls onward
Off rings from the goodly store
Which a bounteous God has given
And has placed about our door.
From the earth and from the forests,
From the skillful craftsman's hands,
Products of the Western sea-board,
Land of peers, and peer of lands.

Ye shall see her greatest city
On the shore of Puget Sound
Rising upward, spreading outward,
Moving on with leap and bound.
Far beyond yon lake to eastward
Soon her borders will extend,
Till the title "Queen of Cities"
She will hold and e'er defend.

As the glebe today is broken
Marking this a work begun,
Let us pledge a deep devotion
That shall bind us, every one,
To the wheel with every shoulder.
Let these words our slogan be:
On, Seattle, ever onward,
Hail, all hail, the A.-Y.-P!

REDMOND WINS AT LAST.
The Colts Baseball Team from Seattle made their initial appearance here yesterday, and proved easy picking for the home aggregation. Huffman, the home twirler, showed much better form than in any preceding game, having everything needed to fool the batsmen.

He made fifteen swings at the ball and then retired. Sundblade relieved him and thus added a tower of strength, and caused the Seattle men to sit up and take notice of his daring and speedy base running.

Manager Brown made some sensational one-hand catches in center, pulling the ball out of the sky.

Gepner, for the visitors, was yanked out of the box in the fifth, with the score standing 7 to 1 against him, and replaced by Dunney who was the real candy for two innings, never a home product reaching first base, and then came the avalanche, for after two were out, Redmond scored five runs, two being forced in, and then with the bases bulging, the distinguished-Coltish catcher dropped the third strike and threw the ball away, and when the delighted fans awoke, three more runs had clattered over the pan.

The things the gentlemanly, black-eyed twirler from the city said would not look well published in a paper that is printed in a temperance town.

Later our boys annexed two more in order to serve both pitchers alike, and thus dispel any chance for one of them to crow over the other; they also presented the visiting team with another run to still further square things. Final, 14 to 2.

Dunney lead the young horses in batting, and put up a nice game. The game was devoid of any unpleasant features. Seidel, umpiring his usual fair and steady game. The "Colts," used to the hard pavements of the city, found the green grass exceedingly ticklish to their tender feet, and this, no doubt, hampered them in their work.

Mr. W. A. Faulds is having some work done on the interior of his residence.

Would it not be in keeping with the new buildings being erected and other improvements that are being made, for all the property owners and householders in Redmond to see that their premises are neatly kept, free from rubbish, tin cans, etc., so that outsiders coming into our town will have a better impression?

Quite a large audience was present at the Memorial service at the church last Sunday afternoon. The way in which these national occasions are kept and revered is a sure indication of the patriotism of the people and inherent strength of the nation.

Mr. A. W. Seeley came over from Kirkland in his ruto Sunday afternoon to assist in the work of the Sunday school in the absence of the usual leader.

You may subscribe at the post office. DO IT NOW!

Are you attending the Sunday school and the church service each Sabbath afternoon? If not, will you not come? You will be welcome.

The Redmond Trading Co. is treating its store to a new coat of paint; also new lettering.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas Hoffman went to Issaquah on Saturday to remain over Sunday.

Francis Story has returned to his home here after several weeks sojourn up the Sound.

Misses Lena and Zee Hutcheson are home from Kirkland where they attended school for the past year; also Jesse and Ralph Kellar of the Seattle High School.

Mrs. Geo. Tew has returned from Shelton where she has been caring for an invalid uncle.

Mrs. Frank Seidel, of Sammamish, is spending the week with Redmond friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and family will leave this week for their new home in Texas. Mike Lutes and family will occupy the Vines house thus vacated.

Miss Myrtle Oslund gave a delightful informal party to about twenty-five of her young friends at her parents' home on Saturday evening. Dainty luncheons were served during the evening and dancing was indulged in until the wee small hours of the morn.

Mrs. Gillette, of Kirkland, accompanied her husband to the afternoon service here last Sunday. The reverend gentleman is creating great interest here, he being very popular with all classes.

Kasparilla has been making some wonderful cures in Redmond recently. It is sold by W. D. Donnelly.

Harry Martin has bought a lot near the intersection of the old and new roads to Kirkland and will build a residence upon it at once.

Miss Irene Westby has entered the Sun's subscription contest. She is a very popular young lady in Redmond and has a host of friends who have already vowed their intention of seeing that she gets first prize. Be ready when the contests starts June 3, at noon, and give her your coupons and subscriptions.

Fred Brown is employed this week in painting the front of his brother's hotel refreshment emporium. T. B. will soon follow suit on the front of his store. Painting seems to be epidemic in Redmond at present.

Gust Bloom is erecting a residence in Redmond. We seem to be able to record the building of a new house every week. Watch Redmond grow.

C. W. Hutchison, who has been suffering for some time from stomach trouble went to Seattle Friday for treatment.

Wm. Brown and family, E. E. Wright and Mrs. Woodcock of Portland, were members of a party that visited Snoqualmie Falls last Thursday.

It is said that there is soon to be an automobile stage running from Kirkland to North Bend. Watch for particulars.

Frank Sidell and wife of Sammamish were visiting friends in Redmond Sunday.

Station Agent Andy Lamere brings his freight bills around these days with a sad expression on his countenance and a tread that is slow. His wife and sister left for their old home in Minneapolis last Saturday, hence his dejection. He says being a bachelor isn't what it's cracked up to be.

Wepler's camp is still under quarantine, although the smallpox victim has nearly recovered. No other cases are reported.

The game between the Redmond juniors and the Issaquah juniors last Sunday morning resulted in a victory for the visitors; score 4 to 6. The Issaquah boys returned home in the evening all carrying brooms to signify that they had made a clean sweep so far this season.

A Girl,
A Man,
A Storm

It was the last car through, and was nearly half an hour late. Standing about the streets on a snowy, windy night is not conducive to good nature, consequently it is not to be wondered that when at last the belated car crawled into sight the girl waiting alone in the deserted square wore a look of impatience—a look which changed to one of intense discomfiture and annoyance when, upon entering the car, she found every seat occupied.

"Pardon, miss, you may have my place," began a dapper little man, rising quickly at sight of a pretty face. She was about to accept the courtesy thankfully when her eyes fell upon the other occupant of the seat, then her figure heightened perceptibly and the haughty look on her face caused the polite little man to wonder inwardly as she replied:

"Thank you, but do not trouble. I don't mind standing in the least."
"No trouble at all, I assure you; this is my stop," he answered, moving to the door as the car drew to a slow halt.

The girl's cheeks reddened and she the man withdrew, leaving her tired and cold, the only vacant seat in the car at her side, but one she would not accept under any circumstances, as she told herself spitefully. The idea of alighting and walking presented itself, but she knew that would be impossible, so she clung to the back of the seat in front, as the car lurched and creaked and started painfully on.

She glanced at him after a few moments, and could not prevent a little thrill of delight as she noticed a worn look about the eyes which had not been there before—before—well, anyway, he was to blame and she didn't care a bit.

A queer little smile stole into his eyes as he noted the surreptitious glances cast at him, and he settled back behind his paper as if no such thing as a girl ever crossed his mind.

At last he could stand the look of utter weariness on her face no longer, and rising, he touched her politely on the arm, saying:

"I am better able to stand than you, if you really prefer the whole seat alone."

She glanced at him with no recognition in her eyes, only the look of well-bred surprise he had seen there when something had impressed her.

"Indeed; no—I could not think of permitting a stranger to so inconvenience himself for me."

With all the ceremony possible he presented his card, with the words: "Permit me to introduce myself. I should have done so at first. I merely made the suggestion as I observed the people about us were beginning to notice—and wonder."

Without a word she dropped into the seat, and shrank as far as possible into the corner as she made the slightest motion in the world for him to be seated also. Again he smiled. That was a lucky thought—remembering her abhorrence of being conspicuous.

The white world outside looked cold and dreary as the car moved slower and slower over the ice-covered rails, fighting its way almost ineffectively through the storm. Only another quar-while the woman with grief tugging at her heart rushes around with compressed lips and hard, tearless eyes, mercilessly assaulting every inoffensive object in the house as the proper recipient for a good drubbing.

The overworked woman is not always the unhappy one, however. She is quite likely to be the woman of unlimited ambition. She wants to "stand well" in the eyes of the neighbors and goes ahead killing herself, poor thing, in ignorance of the fact that it is utterly useless to try to please the neighbors. If you don't overwork they will say you are no housekeeper, and if you do they will say you are a fool and wonder why you are getting everything about you in shape for your husband's second wife.

The great consideration in regard to the overwork habit is for the victim herself. I speak with some feeling upon this topic, as I myself am far gone in the overwork habit of the most incurable sort. I am, however, subject to lucid intervals in which I vow to reform and go about laboring with such of my sisters as I find launched on a regular bear-eyed debauch of this most fascinating dissipation.

If young women could only know how precious is that nerve force which they are flinging away in various forms of overwork, and could realize how soon the evil days come and how long they stay; how little what we "accomplish" in this world amounts to after all, they would surely, resolutely, put aside the temptation to work too hard, and cultivate that repose of manner which may in common parlance, be termed laziness.—Juliet V. Strauss, in Chicago Journal.

ter of a mile and this strained, silent ride would be over, she thought, just as the lights in the car darkened and it came to an abrupt halt.

"Impossible to go any further tonight," shouted the conductor, as several false starts were made.

Slowly the crowd made its way from the car, vowing all sorts of vengeance against such a poorly managed line, and apostrophizing such abominable weather.

With a brave little sigh, she rose and made her way to the street with the rest. Not a soul was going in her direction—not a person on the car with whom she had even a bowing acquaintance, except—Another deep sigh, and she started off. Once she glanced back to see if he had by any chance followed, but no, there he was, talking and laughing with the conductor. In spite of all she could do, a tear rolled down her cheek. She had never felt so forlorn in her life before; never had longed so for him, that is, never had admitted it.

The wind blew the snow in her face, and she was nearly exhausted—every step grew more difficult. The tears fell faster now, and she dabbed at them piteously with a snow-laden little handkerchief. Suddenly a particularly strong gust of wind swept by, and she clutched at a fence while a mournful little sob broke from her lips just as a pair of strong arms folded her tightly to a rough snowy coat!

"Oh, Jack!" she cried, without even glancing at the face above her.

He drew her arm through his and led her to her door. Nothing but those two words had been spoken, but there are times when a few moments of silence expresses more than whole hours of conversation.

"Come in, Jack," she whispered. "I want you to."

"Forgive me, dear," he answered, while they were waiting for the door to open, "I was wholly to blame—it was my fault."

"No, Jack," she quickly interrupted, "all mine. But, dear," a little roguish smile showing through the still undried tears, "you will always remember that you spoke first, won't you?"—Boston Post.

SHEEP DOGS ARE KNOWING.

Recognize by Sight and Smell Each Animal of Flock.

What a herd dog has first to learn is to know every one of the 200 or 300 sheep, and to know them both by sight and smell. This he does thoroughly. When Watterson was running sheep on the plains he had a young collie not yet put to the herd, but kept about the pumping plant. As the sheep came in by hundreds to the troughs the dog grew so to know them that when they had picked up a stray from another band he discovered it from afar, and, darting as a hornet, nipping and yelping, parted it out from the band. At the time no mere man would have pretended, without the aid of the brand, to recognize any of the thousands that bore it.

How long recollection stays by the dog is not certain, but at least a twelvemonth, as was proved to Filion Girard after he had lost a third of his band when the Santa Anna came roaring up by Lone Pine with a cloud of saffron-colored dust on its wings. After shearing of next year, passing

Have you ever contemplated and marveled at the nervous woman's passion for overwork and speculated upon the advisability of taking legal methods for curing her of it? It seems to me that if, when the victim of the overwork habit shows a disposition to go upon a rampage, she were simply corralled by a big policeman and taken to a rest cure establishment for a few days it would be a blessing for society in general. Have you ever noticed that when a woman is afflicted with the work habit, the sicker she gets the harder she works, until she falls "all of a heap," a wreck from nervous prostration, or, what is far better, dead and gone to an untimely grave?

Unhappiness is a frequent cause of overwork. The happy woman is prone to sitting down on the back door steps in fine weather, watching the flickering shadows of a vine or tree, playing with the cat or idly following the flight of the birds or the clouds sailing away in the sky.

The overworked woman is not always the unhappy one, however. She is quite likely to be the woman of unlimited ambition. She wants to "stand well" in the eyes of the neighbors and goes ahead killing herself, poor thing, in ignorance of the fact that it is utterly useless to try to please the neighbors. If you don't overwork they will say you are no housekeeper, and if you do they will say you are a fool and wonder why you are getting everything about you in shape for your husband's second wife.

If young women could only know how precious is that nerve force which they are flinging away in various forms of overwork, and could realize how soon the evil days come and how long they stay; how little what we "accomplish" in this world amounts to after all, they would surely, resolutely, put aside the temptation to work too hard, and cultivate that repose of manner which may in common parlance, be termed laziness.—Juliet V. Strauss, in Chicago Journal.

close to another band, Filion's dogs set themselves unbidden to routing out of it, and rounding with their own, nearly twenty head, which the herder, being an honest man, freely admitted he had picked up on the mesa following after Filion the spring before.

Quick to know the willful and un-biddable members of a flock, the wise collie is not sparing of bites, and, following after a stubborn stray, will often throw it and stand guard until help arrives or the sheep shows a better mind. But the herder who has a dog trained at the difficult work of herding sheep through the chutes and runways into boats and cars for transportation is the fortunate fellow.

There was Pete's dog, Bourdaloue, that at the Stockton landing, with no assistance, put 800 wild sheep from the hands on the boat in eight minutes, by running along the backs of the flock until he had picked out the stubborn or stupid leaders that caused the sheep to jam in the runway, and by sharp bites, set them forward, himself leading the backs of the racing flock, like the premiere equestrienne of the circus, which all the men of the shipping cheered to see.—Harper's Magazine.

MECHANICS OF STOMACH.

German Physiologists Make Exhaustive Study of Digestion.

Until quite recently practically all the studies of digestion have been confined to an investigation of the chemical changes going on in the digestive tract. Several German physiologists have lately turned their attention to the study of the mechanics of the stomach digestion, and have arrived at most remarkable and interesting conclusions, which are widely different from the theoretical teaching that has prevailed in the past.

Starting with animals, the work has progressed to include human processes as well. The primary work was done with animals who were killed and their stomachs immediately frozen, so that the exact conditions prevailing in life could be investigated at leisure.

Gruzner, who was one of the earliest workers in this field, concluded that the stomach contents was divided into layers, the food taken last being surrounded by food taken earlier and thus protected for a time from contact with the stomach walls. In effect, one portion of the stomach, the so-called fundus, constitutes a storage section, where the conversion of the starch particles into sugar by the action of saliva is continued without admixture with the gastric juices.

Recent experiments have confined the position in the abdominal cavity and other conditions.

In support of their contention that the stomach does not mix its contents, they adduce the fact that starch digestion of herbivorous or vegetable feeding animals may progress actively at the heart end of the stomach where lactic acid is present in abundance, and other fermentations are taking place, though it ceases in other portions where hydrochloric acid is present.

THE MIDDLE-AGED MAN.

Dull His Life Might Seem to the Young, but It Yields Enjoyment.

"I find as I grow older," said the middle-aged man, "that I am more and more a creature of routine."

"When I was a young man routine irked me and I liked variety, but now it is change that irks me. I like now to do my appointed work in the regular way, always the same, and to spend my leisure hours in like manner."

"My work is routine, and I would not have it varied if I could; in fact, varying it would upset me more or less. As it is, I work along through the day by regular, successive stages, coming always to the same things at certain regular hours and minutes, and at night I go home at a fixed hour always by the same train to get off at the same station, and to make my way thence homeward always by the same route, past the same buildings, the same show windows, the same signs, the same everything, to my home."

"Tiresome? Quite the contrary. Sometimes somewhere along my route they put in a new storm front or some one sells out and a new tenant comes in and a new sign goes up, and really these things interest me very much, because they happen in my streets. Really these things seem quite like events to me, but they are all the events I want."

"And then when I get home I do enjoy my dinner—for that matter, in my way, I enjoy everything—and after dinner I like to sit down, always in the same chair, and smoke and read, and here, again, I confess I don't like to be disturbed."

"I get my mind fixed and my enjoyment started on whatever I am reading, and I don't like to be interrupted. Somebody speaks to me and I turn to the speaker, but it must be with a little vagueness; certainly I don't fully understand what the speaker has said. And when they see that look they say, good humoredly:

"Oh, let him read."
"Whereat I politely protest, with now every evidence of attention; but they say kindly:

"Oh, go on with your reading," and they mean I shall do so, for at my age I am a privileged person."

"Sometimes they try to get me to go to the theater. Now, I like the theater, but I don't like to go, because the going breaks in on my routine; and then they laugh at me and call me an old fogey and leave me home; and really that suits me best, because I do like to get to bed comfortably at my regular hour and get my regular night's sleep."

"So a routine life suits me best. True, if all men were like this there would be no progress; but let the restless young people attend to that."

"A narrow view, this? Perhaps so, but I scarcely think selfish; and the older I grow the more do I think that nature is very kind to us in letting us find within such narrow but friendly limits very great enjoyment."—Washington Post.

BEAUTY AND THE SPECIALISTS.

It Is Hard Work Following Advice of the "Experts."

"I am really and truly in a predicament to preserve what I call my beauty," said a woman who can count thirty years if she is willing to a New York Press writer. "I would like to know whether each of the many persons who profess to have studied that subject with care has passed an examination—like a doctor's, say. I am told by one man to take a great deal of sleep, I do, and what is the result? I wander about like a person in a daze because I have slept too much. Oh, yes, despite this I am told that I look well. I may look rosy and fine, but I feel the reverse."

"I then try more exercise and less sleep and find that I am feeling better, and some obnoxious person comes along and tells me that I have aged ten years in the last ten weeks. That is just the time I have been taking the strenuous exercise. Well, I feel that I do not want to go on the stage as a 'strong woman' and therefore reduce the exercise and take more sleep, and somehow or other there is a something that interferes, and again I am told that I do not look up to the mark. In sheer desperation I vow that I will live the comfortable life and I sleep while I have time to and as much as I want. I avoid meeting critical friends and going anywhere near the beauty doctor's establishments, but unfortunately I discover in the mirror that I am looking tired. So I have given it all up and have resolved that those who wish to look beautiful must be unhealthy and those who wish to be healthy must forego the pleasure of good looks. The only hope I have for rest from the torments of the agents of the beauty culture is to pretend that I like my own style."

Nothing I Ate
Agreed With Me

MRS. LENORA BODENHAMER.

Mrs. Lenora Bodenhamer, R. F. D. 1, Box 99, Kernersville, N. C., writes:

"I suffered with stomach trouble and indigestion for some time, and nothing that I ate agreed with me. I was very nervous and experienced a continual feeling of uneasiness and fear. I took medicine from the doctor, but it did me no good."

"I found in one of your Peruna books a description of my symptoms. I then wrote to Dr. Hartman for advice. He said I had catarrh of the stomach. I took Peruna and Manalin and followed his directions and can now say that I feel as well as I ever did."

"I hope that all who are afflicted with the same symptoms will take Peruna, as it has certainly cured me."

The above is only one of hundreds who have written similar letters to Dr. Hartman. Just one such case as this entitles Peruna to the candid consideration of every one similarly afflicted. If this be true of the testimony of one person, what ought to be the testimony of hundreds, yes thousands, of honest, sincere people. We have in our files a great many other testimonials.

GREAT LAND RUSH

THOUSANDS FILING ON SOUTHERN PACIFIC GRANT.

Nearly All of the Three Million Acres in Oregon Covered. Entrymen Willing to Risk Money in Lawsuits in Order to Make Corporation Disgorge.

SHAW ADVOCATES CLOSER COMMERCE WITH CANADA

Portland, Or., May 23.—With three million acres of the finest land in the state as the prize, the people of Oregon are stampeding to locate upon the Southern Pacific land grants and then force in the courts the sale of the property the corporation has held so long.

Every train bears its quota of entrymen, and already almost every acre of the 3,000,000 has been claimed by people willing to risk money in lawsuits upon the chance of forcing the Southern Pacific to disgorge lands so long withheld from settlement. The people of the entire Western half of the state have enlisted against the corporation, and a deluge of litigation is overwhelming it.

The rush for lands extends along the railroad from Yamhill to the southern border of the state. It partakes of some of the features of a reservation opening, and lacks little if any of its intensity. Men are traveling by night as well as by day in an effort to make good their claims to specified quarter sections. Law offices are besieged by hurrying land seekers, and clerks and stenographers are working under high pressure preparing papers for service on the land holding corporation.

A stream of documents making demands for the purchase of specified quarters and containing tenders for the lands, according to government terms, is pouring in on the Southern Pacific Company. The time has come when the railroad must make good its claim to the lands in the courts or deliver them to purchasers according to the specifications of the act of congress that made the grant. In the original act granting the land to the Oregon & California, east side and west side, the corporation failed to complete a specified amount of railroad within a given time. Then the government renewed the grant, contingent on the acceptance by the corporations of the terms which provided that the lands should be sold to actual settlers at a price not to exceed $2.50 per acre, and in tracts not to exceed 160 acres to a single purchaser.

PATRIOTIC NORSEMEN PROPOSE BIG PRESENT

St. Paul, May 27.—A novel movement has been started in Minneapolis, the outburst of patriotic enthusiasm among Norwegians at a recent celebration held in the Auditorium. There was an audience of nearly 3,000 men and women, and in a stirring speech toward the close of the meeting John W. Arctander said:

"We are a million of us here in America. Each one of us is earning $500 a year on an average, or in other words we are producing $500,000,000 a year for America and have been doing it for years. No one will begrudge it in the least if we send Norway a present on her 100th birthday anniversary, and I propose that we shall take steps tonight to begin the work of raising a fund of $1,000,000. One-quarter should be used in clothing the naked mountains and helping to make them beautiful as well as profitable. Then another quarter should be used in draining those desolate swamps, which could produce the finest crops if they could be drained. The remainder of the funds should be for industrial development, or such purposes as the committee may decide."

The proposition caught like wildfire and a committee of prominent Norwegians was named to take up the project. At the head of the list is United States Senator Knute Nelson, of Minnesota. Among the other well known men associated with him are Gov. Davidson, of Wisconsin; O. G. Searle, Minneapolis; H. J. Gjersten, Minneapolis; Rasmus B. Anderson, Madison, and Prof. Sven Oftedal.

Milk Plant Destroyed

Auburn, Wash., May 25.—The gas tank operated in connection with the big Borden milk condenser exploded about 7 o'clock in the evening. The report was heard all over town. Fire broke out almost immediately and consumed the shattered building. The loss will be considerable, but will interfere only slightly with the operation of the plant.

New York, May 27.—Gen. Benjamin F. Tracy has announced his intention of serving as a member of the board of directors of the Mutual Life insurance company. The general was recently elected on the administration ticket, the nomination having been made without his consent.

TRIFLE SOON, BUT MEANS IT

Governor Mead Will Be a Candidate for Re-election.

Spokane, May 27.—"The announcement of my candidacy for a renomination was not intended at Sunnyside, and was assuredly not formal, but I suppose it is only a question of time until I shall take such a step formally," said Gov. Mead in an interview here. "The report grew out of a remark that I meant as a joke, to the effect that Mr. Lancaster was there to look after roads and I was traveling with him to look after the fences."

SHAW ADVOCATES CLOSER COMMERCE WITH CANADA

New York, May 23.—Predicting closer and more friendly relations with Canada than ever before, both commercially and otherwise, Leslie M. Shaw, former secretary of the treasury, went farther in his address before the Canadian Club, and declared his belief that Canada and the United States will eventually stand shoulder to shoulder in the matter of tariff upon imported manufactures.

"I am free to express the opinion," he said, "that both the United States and Canada will settle down to the policy of making one-priced markets. They will, in my judgment, perhaps not immediately, but ultimately, say to all the world:

"We levy such tariffs as we think will best conserve our own interests. We are selfish, and while we wish every country well we legislate solely for our own. But when we have given our own laborers that degree of protection which we think appropriate, we have no pets and make no distinction as between commercial competitors."

"The French producers of knittings and other textiles, cutlery and other hardware, china and glass, will now, as ever, enter the United States and Canadian markets on exactly the same terms as the products of like articles in other countries."

Outrage Upon England

After pointing out the fact that Great Britain consumes one-third of all American exports without imposing one penny more taxation than upon internal revenue taxes on their own domestic articles, Shaw declared that it would be an outrage to admit the products of Germany, France or Italy on more favorable terms than those of England.

"I have often thought," he said, "of what England would say if Canada were to admit our manufactured articles upon a lower taxation than she imposed upon those of the mother country. If England will consent, then I am in favor of commercial union with Canada, coupled with the same tariff laws and the same immigration laws for both countries."

"I am disposed to think that such an agreement would be mutually advantageous. I grant it might at first slightly affect our food product states, but it would very soon result in an increased market for American labor satisfactory to offset it. It would work to the very great advantage of Canadian agriculture, although it probably would retard the development of Canadian manufactures."

"Our interests are so identical, our future so full of joint hope and promise, that I think it would be of great advantage to insure the greatest possible intimacy. I confess, however, that this is a consummation for which I have little hope. As I have intimated, I fear Great Britain would seriously object to the admission of American manufactures free of duty and the imposition of protective tariffs against similar products coming from the mother country."

"However, let me return to my original suggestion, that these two great American republics (I use the term abstractly rather than technically) continue to live each in the admiration of the other, and each pursuing such policy as it believes best calculated to further the interests of its own, without special reference to the effects upon the other, but having done this, let each ever extend to the other the glad hand and glad wish."

Public Utilities Bill Passed

Albany, N. Y., May 23.—Public opinion virtually swept aside senate party lines yesterday and that body gave its approval to the public utilities bill in the form in which it was adopted by a Republican caucus. There were only six votes in the entire legislature against the measure, which embodies the ideas of Gov. Hughes as to the regulation of public utilities and establishes a policy which its friends say will insure efficiency and fairness in the dealings of public service corporations with the people.

EXPENSIVE INHERITANCE.

Jerry Corbett looked thoughtfully at the harness he had been rubbing, stood a little farther, looked at it still more critically, and then attacked an unsatisfactory spot with great vigor. "Talking about money," he said to his friend, Mr. Lewis, who sat near by, idly watching him work, "you can't tell how much folks are worth by what's come to 'em, nor how much will pan out in the end of what they've heeled to. Sometimes we think folks are close and stingy when, come to find out, they've got nothing to do with."

Mr. Lewis was an admirable listener; he looked intelligent and attentive, but never was known to offer a delaying word.

"There was a man I drove from the depot one day," said Mr. Corbett, continuing after a glance at his faithful friend, "and his clothes were such that I told him about the circuit drive round the pond that I take folks for 35 cents."

"He said he should admire to take it, but all he could afford just then was 15 cents' worth, to the cemetery, where he was expecting to come upon some ancient relatives. I never saw him again, but I heard he walked back to the depot."

"Then there was Ethan Godding over to Ishland. He heeled to a hundred dollars from a cousin. The first he knew of it, word came in a letter from one of the relatives that had been at the funeral and heard the will read afterward."

"Ethan wasn't poor, exactly,—not poverty poor,—but he was always inclined to be a little behindhand, and when he got news of that legacy he was sailing pretty close to the wind."

"But it's going to put me right where I want to be, Jerry," he said to me that very day he got the news. "And the first thing I need is a new whip," he said, "and I commission you to get it for me."

"Well, sir, I got as good as was to be had—there 'tis over in that corner, still in its paper. He said you didn't want to buy any poor-looking truck for a legacy."

"While he was with me a fancy pouter came along to his place, and feeling able, his wife invested in a special kind o' fowl. And she also bought a ladder an' two o' those stretch-out chairs from a man that happened along."

"When Ethan got home there sat Will Latham with a bill for twenty-one dollars and nineteen cents for groceries that had slipped Ethan's mind, and the next day the mail brought him an account from Doc Lane of twelve dollars for measles and three-fifty for Willy's collar-bone. And that night his brother Ed's wife came and borrowed forty dollars to send her sister out to Colorado."

"Ethan said if he hadn't happened to draw most of what was in the bank out that morning, knowing he'd have the hundred-dollar check to put in within a few days, he couldn't have settled with 'em so free. But he did it, and when he came in to me the next week and sat right down where you're sitting now, he began to laugh, for all he looked kind o' scared."

"I reckon you'll have to store that whip for me a while, Jerry," he said to me. "I wasn't going to have but mighty little out o' that legacy, anyway—in fact, just between us two, I've paid out one hundred and five dollars and sixty-one cents already. And this morning I've just got word that Cousin Harmon's wishes were better than his carryings out, and there ain't one single cent to come my way!"

"So I look over at that corner where the whip stands once in a while, and I say to myself, 'Jerry, money is something you can't tell about. Wings are nothing to the way it goes,' I say, 'and the less reputation for having it you've got, the more you can do with what you have—and that ain't saying much!'"—Youth's Companion.

John Cotton, who lives in Dewsbury, Yorkshire, is believed to possess the most voracious appetite of any man living. Within the last few days he has consumed a meal at which a van horse would have jibbed in despair. He is already well known in the district in which he lives by reason of his past performances, but his latest feat surpasses all his previous conquests.

The contest lasted fourteen days. The condition was that he should eat two peas on the first day, double that number on the second and continue to double it day after day for fourteen days. The peas which were used for the contest were the ordinary green marrowfats.

During the first week the man simply swallowed them like pills, in the dry state; afterward they were steeped and boiled. On the tenth day the number was 1,024, on the eleventh 2,048, on the twelfth 4,096, on the thirteenth 8,192 and on the fourteenth 16,384.

Owing to a little hitch in the proceedings he refused to consume the total on the last day, but on the thirteenth day he disposed of 8,192, which is believed to be a world's record. The only condiment he took was a little pepper.

On the thirteenth day operations were commenced about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. He disposed of 500 with out the slightest inconvenience, and calmly rested until 7 o'clock in the evening before recommencing operations.

At that hour he faced the enormous mass, which filled the largest household bucket, with a determination not to surrender. Just before 11 o'clock he cleared the last of the dishes and was greeted as the world's champion. During the thirteen days he had eaten 16,384 peas.

The man is prepared to defend his championship against all comers and there is some talk of a rabbit-eating contest as the result of the pea-eating competition. In the contest, which took place simultaneously, all the competitors were stopped when they reached 2,000, lest the affair should end in a coroner's inquest.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

TRADITIONS IN THE NAVY.

Old Customs Die Hard Among the Conservative Officers.

"Traditions and customs die hard in the navy," said a veteran officer. "Why, pike drill only went out with the sailing of the new fleet. Twenty years ago and less on the wooden ships we always had pike drill, and the pikes—regular old-fashioned pikes with iron shod heads, such as the infantry at Agincourt bore, only shorter—stood in racks on the gun deck."

"Certain of our petty officers are still officially known as yeomen, as they were veritable yeomen in the days of Drake, and it is only a few years ago that what are now junior lieutenants were known as masters, that title being, as I take it, a survival from the days when soldiers and politicians and even clergymen were sent to sea as officers and had to have a sailing master on board—a master mariner—to supply the seamanship."

"The ship's policeman is still known as master at arms, as he was in 100 days of old. His rank may have been created as a grade below that of a knight-at-arms, and the sailors call him 'Jimmy Legs,' just as they have since he first put leg irons on an unruly mariner."

"Then there is the 'Jack' o' the Dust,' a regular official title to this day for the lowest of the paymaster's staff, and a title which has attached to that position in the English and American navies from time immemorial. We still play 'The Roast Beef of Old England,' and 'The Muffin Man' is a favorite tattoo."

"All this and more we have inherited from the British navy. We kept up the pike drill after the British had abandoned it, and altogether I think we are the more conservative of the two services and cling harder to the old things."—Washington Star.

Let the Water Run.

On cold nights leave the faucets in the bathroom and sink turned on so that the water just drops, and so keeps circulating. It is an effectual method of preventing the pipes from freezing. See that the water is turned off from a cold laundry.

Have the winter clothes yard on the south side of the house in order that the servant who hangs out the clothes may not have to freeze her fingers and toes.

After every snow storm have the gutters along the drive shoveled out. Be especially careful about this where the slope is steep, in order to give the freshest water a chance to get away, and to prevent its tearing out the drive. For a similar reason shovel the snow off the catch basin.—Country Life in America.

CATARRH BLOOD DISEASED AND SYSTEM DISORDERED

Catarrh is not merely an inflammation of the tissues of the head and throat, as the symptoms of ringing noises in the ears, mucous dropping back into the throat, continual hawking and spitting, etc., would seem to indicate; it is a blood disease in which the entire circulation and the greater part of the system are involved. Catarrh is due to the presence of an excess of uric acid in the blood. The Liver, Kidneys and Bowels frequently become torpid and dull in their action and instead of carrying off the refuse and waste of the body, leave it to sour and form uric acid in the system. This is taken up by the blood and through its circulation distributed to all parts of the system. These impurities in the blood irritate and inflame the different membranes and tissues of the body, and the contracting of a cold will start the secretions and other disgusting and disagreeable symptoms of Catarrh. As the blood goes to all parts of the body the catarrhal poison affects all parts of the system. The head has a tight, full feeling, nose continually stopped up, pains above the eyes, slight fever comes and goes, the stomach is upset and the entire system disordered and affected by this disease. It is a waste of time to try to cure Catarrh with sprays, washes, inhalations, etc. Such treatment does not reach the blood, and can, therefore, do nothing more than temporarily relieve the discomfort of the trouble. To cure Catarrh permanently the blood must be thoroughly purified and the system cleansed of all poisons, and at the same time strengthened and built up. Nothing equals S. S. S. for this purpose. It attacks the disease at its head, goes down to the very bottom of the trouble and makes a complete and lasting cure. S. S. S. removes every particle of the catarrhal poison from the blood, making this vital stream pure, fresh and healthy. Then the inflamed membranes begin to heal, the head is loosened and cleared, the hawking and spitting cease, every symptom disappears, the constitution is built up and vigorous health restored. S. S. S. also tones up the stomach and digestion and acts as a fine tonic to the entire system. If you are suffering with Catarrh begin the use of S. S. S. and write us a statement of your case and our physicians will send you literature about Catarrh, and give you special medical advice without charge. S. S. S. is for sale at all first class drug stores.

I had Catarrh for about fifteen years, and no man could have been worse. I tried everything I could hear of, but no good resulted. I then began S. S. S., and could see a little improvement from the first bottle, and after taking it a short while was cured. This was six years ago, and I am as well today as any man. I think Catarrh is a blood disease, and know there is nothing on earth better for the blood than S. S. S. Nobody thinks more of S. S. S. than I do.

PATRICK CALHOUN AND OTHER CAPITALISTS INDICTED.

Another Chapter Added to the San Francisco Graft Proceedings—Nineteen Indictments and Eighty-Nine Counts Are Returned.

San Francisco, May 25.—The grand jury, which has been investigating alleged bribery in connection with the granting of the overhead trolley franchises to the United Railroads, last night returned nineteen indictments of eighty-nine counts, charging the crimes of giving and accepting bribes and naming as guilty the following persons.

Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz, Abraham Ruef, President Patrick Calhoun and Assistant to the President Thorwell Mullally, of the United Railroads and Attorneys T. L. Ford and William M. Abbott, of that corporation, and also President Louis Glass and former Agent T. B. Halsey, of the Pacific States Telephone and Telegraph Company, the last named indictments being in connection with a deal by which the established telephone corporation sought to prevent the granting of a competitive franchise to the Home Telephone company.

Fourteen indictments, containing eighty-four counts, were returned jointly against Schmitz, Ruef, Calhoun, Mullally, Ford and Abbott, whom the grand jury accuse of bribing fourteen supervisors in amounts ranging from $4,000 to $15,000 each, to vote for the change in the franchise of the United Railroads.

Say Schmitz Sought Bribes

Two "additional" indictments were returned against Schmitz, the one charging that he sought and accepted from Ford and Ruef a bribe of $50,000 for his co-operation in the trolley deal, the other charging that he sought and received a bribe of $32,500 from Frank G. Drum to approve the vote of the supervisorial board fixing the public gas rate for 1906 at 85 cents, instead of 75 cents, at the behest of the San Francisco Gas and Electric Company.

Big Bail Is Demanded

Judge Coffey announced, "after running his eye over the indictments, that he would fix bail in the sum of $10,000 on each one of the eighty-nine counts. He gave the accused until 11 o'clock in the morning to furnish bonds and remarked that he would accept in lieu thereof cash bail of $5,000 on each count.

Assurance was given that pending the arrangement of bail no arrests will be made by the prosecution.

STANDARD OIL WOULD KEEP TRUST SECRETS

St. Paul, May 27.—In the case of the government against the Standard Oil Company arguments upon the exceptions to the bill of complaint of the former were concluded during the afternoon and the court took the matter under advisement.

The complaint seeks to have the Standard Oil Company and its seventy subsidiary companies declared an unlawful combination in restraint of trade, and to have the combination dissolved.

Frank B. Kellogg, of this city, made the principal argument for the government, and contended that the original form of the Standard Oil trust agreement was still kept alive by the organization, and to show that the Sherman anti trust law had been violated it was necessary to show up the history of the company from the beginning. He asserted that the original trust, which was declared illegal, was dominated by the same president, directors, etc., as operated in restraint of trade, is a monopoly, and is the same as the Standard Oil holding corporation, which Kellogg styled a subterfuge.

The purpose of the bill of exceptions is to narrow down the issue in the case to charges against the company, which date back not farther than 1899, when the company was organized. The ruling of the judges upon the bill will determine whether the government's complaint shall stand as filed, or whether it shall be amended as demanded by the Standard Oil attorneys. The next step in the fight against the trust will be the taking of testimony in substantiation of allegations set forth in the complaint.

Interstate Commerce Commission Begins an Action.

Washington, May 27.—A definite effort has been commenced before the interstate commerce commission to secure to the public a reduction of fare charged by the Pullman company for its sleeping car accommodations.

This is the first time in the history of the commission that a proceeding has been brought against the Pullman company, and it promises to be an action of more than ordinary interest.

George F. Loftus, of St. Paul, is the complainant. Mr. Loftus avers that he is obliged to travel from St. Paul to various other points and to use the accommodations of the Pullman company. The charges for these accommodations, he declares, are unjust, unreasonable and excessive, and he asks the commission to reduce them by one half. He says that the lower berths are far more desirable than the upper berths and that the latter ought to be considerably less in price, but that no distinction between them is made.

The second complaint relates to travel between St. Paul and Chicago and the third to travel between St. Paul and Seattle, Wash. Between these latter cities it is alleged, the fare is $12 for either a lower or an upper berth. Mr. Loftus asks that the rate be made $8 for a lower berth and $4 for an upper.

WEALTH AND PROSPERITY HELD NOT IDENTICAL

Kansas City, Mo., May 27.—W. J. Gaynor, justice of the appellate division of the supreme court of New York, in an address here, made John D. Rockefeller the object of an attack without specifically mentioning his name. He pointedly referred to his millions in gifts and told how the fortune had been built up through rebates and discriminations by the railroads. He characterized the latter as the greatest crime of the century. Reviewing the railroad situation, he declared that government ownership was not such a long step, citing that under the laws the railroads were public highways. He said:

"If then, certain individuals in a short life time become possessed of so much property that they can make abnormal gifts to charity, if one man can get so much out of the division of the total prosperity, while others are getting so little, that he can give away, for instance, the vast sum of $32,000,000, without feeling it, or missing it, so colossal is his wealth, any more than you would miss five dollars we make a fatal mistake if we ascribe such a condition to prosperity.

"Rather let us pause and inquire whether such colossal wealth could be acquired in a state of prosperity, which rests on a just division of the product of industry.

Dangerous to Free Government

"If we find the public highways of the country, the railroads of the country, being used to allow a few to acquire such fortunes at the expense of their fellow men by having their freights carried at a rate lower than others have to pay, and so much lower that they are enabled to undersell and destroy their rivals in business and thereby create monopolies in themselves, our condition is not only not one of prosperity, but it is dangerous to the perpetuity of our free government. It is the basest crime of our day and generation.

"All our legislatures and public officials, from constable and assessor up, whose aid and good will were serviceable to those who controlled the railroads, and who would accept passes given them for themselves and friends, were corrupted by them. And even some of our judges—tell it not in Gath, publish it not in the streets of Askalon—had their passes or rode in private cars."

Suit to Recover Coal Lands

Denver, May 27.—Charged with conspiring to defraud the government out of 9,000 acres of coal land worth $1,000,000 and located in Routt county, near the town of Lay, the Wisconsin Coal Mining Company, its officers, agents and others, are made defendants in an equity suit filed in the federal court Saturday for the recovery of the land, which, it is alleged, they secured through means of dummy entry men and entry women, who conveyed the lands to the corporation as soon as they had secured patents. Criminal action is prevented, owing to the fact that the statute of limitation has run against the entries.

Bids for New Dry Dock

Washington, May 27.—Bids for the construction of the second drydock at the Puget sound navy yard will be opened July 27. The authorized cost of the dock is $2,250,000. A new feature in the construction has been introduced by making the head of the dock square instead of round, and this will have the advantage of making it possible to lengthen the structure at comparatively small expense. Drydocks built for the navy hereafter will probably be after this plan.

STATE SHOWS HAND IN HAYWOOD CASE.

Juror Who Announces Scruples Against Taking Life Except in War Against Anarchists Passed By Both Sides—Condition Is Accepted.

Boise, Idaho, May 27.—For the first time the real gage of battle was thrown into the ring Saturday in the Haywood murder case, the prosecution announcing as plainly as though it had been in a carefully formulated statement, that it intends to prove a great conspiracy, which embraced the taking of human life and in pursuance of which a great number of lives have been taken. It came out in a remarkable way.

J. E. Tourtelotte, a salesman, was being examined by Senator Borah and stated that he was opposed to capital punishment. The senator asked him a few questions which elicited the information that Mr. Tourtelotte would make an exception in the case of a traitor in time of war or in case of a man who was a party to a murder committed in pursuance of the policy of an organization having the destruction of society for its object. He mentioned anarchists and stated he would hang them if they sacrificed life.

Ready to Prove Anarchy.

After a brief examination Mr. Borah passed the witness up to the defense, to the amazement of the latter and of almost everybody else, but there was a look upon the face of the attorney which plainly said to every spectator: "His exception as to anarchists covers this case. We shall prove to his satisfaction that the case has to do with such a society."

Mr. Darrow asked in a tone of incredulity: "Do you pass this juror for cause?" and Mr. Borah relied in the affirmative, his manner plainly indicating what was in his mind, and everybody realized the challenge had been flung full in the face of the defense, and that the great battle was officially joined. Mr. Darrow questioned the salesman somewhat, and finally said his sentiments suited the defense. Then he asked whether the juror had a thought in his mind to the effect that the defendant might belong to such an organization as he had indicated. Mr. Tourtelotte said:

Defense Accepts Challenge.

"Well, since you have mentioned it, I can see how that might be true."

Though that clinched his position, the defense passed him for cause, and everybody knew that the challenge had been accepted. It was dramatic throughout. Though the juror seemed anxious to get off, he walked right into a position that suited the state exactly, and though he plainly had in mind that Haywood might be shown to have been in a conspiracy to commit murder wholesale in an effort to coerce society, the defense accepted him. Just what was in the mind of Mr. Darrow can only be surmised, but it is rather assumed he thought he was getting a man who would not stand for a capital verdict, or he intended to indicate that the defense was prepared to destroy any proofs the state might have to the effect that Haywood was a party to any such program of murder as the juror indicated as constituting an exception to his views of capital punishment.

Tries to Escape, but Fails.

After the noon recess the situation was emphasized by a voluntary act of Mr. Tourtelotte. He addressed the judge, saying he was not qualified to sit on the jury, as he was opposed to capital punishment. Judge Wood passed the matter up to the attorneys. Then, over the opposition of Mr. Darrow, Mr. Borah was permitted to propound some more questions to him for the purpose of determining whether the juror had been properly understood on his direct examination. Mr. Tourtelotte then emphasized what he had said, and the juror was left in the box.

The laws of this state provide that a man shall not be required to serve on a jury in capital cases if he has conscientious scruples against capital punishment. It has been suggested that Mr. Tourtelotte may take advantage of that and refuse to take the oath. But it is pointed out that he has himself made an exception and therefore cannot claim immunity from service. Lawyers on both sides state the matter is in such shape that the seating of the juror cannot be construed as error. Mr. Tourtelotte is a well known and popular man. He is a member of the Methodist church and is regarded as entirely upright in purpose.

The machine had not been out since last year, and so after running a few miles it bucked so that Mr. Cort was forced to procure a pair of horses and pull the blamed thing home. Miss Bain, who has had charge of a high school on Vashon Island for the last month, returned home Monday night.

Mr. Hird is making good progress in getting the big brick hotel ready for occupancy. He is furnishing the rooms very comfortably and new plumbing is being installed. There will be a bath room with hot and cold water on every floor. All the rooms, halls, etc., are being papered and painted. When the work is completed this will be as up-to-date a hostelry as can be found anywhere. Mr. and Mrs. Hird deserve success in this enterprise.

Mr. Perry L. Speed and wife, of Barron, Wisconsin, who have been making a tour of the Pacific Coast, have been visiting with the family of Wm. R. Stevens of South Kirkland the last week. Mr. Speed has been a conductor on the Soo Line for several years, and is enjoying a three months' leave of absence to look over the Coast country. He has visited all of the principal cities as far south as Los Angeles, Cal., and is much pleased with Seattle as a business place. He will probably return and make his future home at Kirkland. He is pleased with our town. Mr. Speed and wife are just the kind of citizens that make a good community. We are glad to have them here.

C. L. Parrish has bought the Blau place on the Kirkland-Redmond road and will move his family onto it in about a month. He intends to make a very pretty place of it, fixing up the buildings and grounds, putting in fountains, etc. There is plenty of fine running water on the place and every acre of it can be irrigated. Mr. Parrish deserves much credit for the improvement that he has made in Kirkland while here. He has built a number of very pretty residences and has always been ready to put his shoulder to the wheel and work for the interests of the town.

Marshal Patty is thinking of going over to Seattle and capturing "Raffles." He says he needs that $500 to buy gasoline for his launch this summer.

The Kirkland cows seem to be both of a literary and inquisitive nature. One of them recently walked into the open front door of the Sun office, made a hasty examination of the press, glanced over the live copy hook, then calmly made its exit by way of the back door, reminding one of the way some young men go through college. Another nice bossy, whose motto was evidently "excelsior," climbed part way up a flight of stairs in one of the brick blocks and nearly strained her milk getting down again. The Kirkland cows are a wise lot.

The Rev. A. Mackintosh returned on Saturday from Manette.

We give them greeting, one and all, wishing them success in the game of life opening up before them, which just now seems so rosy-hued and full of promise.

Don't forget to buy your dollar's worth of boat tickets at the ticket office hereafter. They won't sell them on the boats any more except for the single trip.

FOREST FIRES.
Many of the logging camps are about to close down for the summer months. As soon as the woods are vacated fires will break out here and there and much good timber will be destroyed. In every camp a few men should be left as patrolmen to watch for these fires and extinguish them before they gain headway. This would save the timber owners many times the amount paid out in wages.

The Bellevue Baseball Club and a nine composed of old timers gave a good exhibition of the national game here Sunday afternoon, the final score being 17 to 16 in favor of the regulars. The score was 16 to 11 at the beginning of the ninth inning, with the old-timers on the long end, but the regulars batted out a victory. Dunn of the old-timers made a home run with the bases full. Both Johnson and Goad pitched good ball. A second game with the same line-up should draw well.

A very pretty wedding occurred at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cook, two and a half miles northeast of Bellevue, on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when their daughter, Anna Elizabeth, was united in marriage to Mr. Guy Leroy Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Howard. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. E. Gillett of Kirkland in choice language and impressive style. The bride was attired in white, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses. The bridesmaid was Miss Gladys Mae Howard, sister of the groom, while the best man was Mr. William F. Cook, brother of the bride. Only a few relatives and intimate friends of both families were present. Mr. and Mrs. Guy L. Howard left late in the afternoon for a trip around the Sound, expecting to return soon and spend the summer in their cottage on the shore of Lake Sammamish. not resort to the streets. The park, which is to cover an acre, is just across from the baseball park and is rapidly nearing completion. Mr. Wilson began work on this piece of ground last summer, clearing out the underbrush and slashing and last fall the logs were hauled out and stacked preparatory to burning this spring. Then the fence was built and at present Mr. Wilson is making a platform for the children to play on. It is twenty-four by fifty-six feet and is to have a railing running all the way around it with seats for one hundred children facing the center. Mr. Wilson has sent east for four steel swings, as he thought the wooden ones would hardly do. They will be placed on the platform. The park will be completed by the time the swings arrive. Mr. Wilson has not decided on the name for it as yet.
